RECORD SNOWS GRIP EUROPE AND AMERICA CAUSING MANY DEATHS

Fall in London Heaviest in 20 Years; Quebec Worst in 50.

ROCHESTER IS HIT BY 13-INCH BLANKET

New England Seacoast Is Battered by Gales as Ships Are Menaced.

(Associated Press.)

Suffering teamed with terror and death in the Balkans yesterday as Europe's bitter cold spread over the desolation wrought by earthquakes. Meanwhile, London experienced its worst snowstorm of 20 years, Quebec its worst of 50 years, Rochester, N. Y., its worst of 15 years.

New England and the Middle West struggled up out of snowdrifts. Worried folk in sea coast towns scanned ship reports expecting fresh intensity in gales north of New York.

Quakes Shake Balkans.

Quakes shook the Balkans for the third successive day and geologists expected more. Between 100 and 200 persons were listed as dead and thousands were without shelter against the cold. An earth shock at Hakodate, Japan, crumpled buildings.

Rivers in France continued to rise. Low sections of Paris were evacuated as the Seine mounted to a foot over the alarm level.

A hurricane at Port Louis, Mauritius, left eleven dead, said reports delayed almost a week. Twenty-three accidental deaths in the area about New York were attributed to the storm that swept from the west Sunday. The Central States counted six-teen dead, after their two-day blizzard.

New York, March 9 (A.P.).—High winds and high tides continued to batter New England's sea coast today. Snow blanketed the East, and fresh storms struck up-State New York. New Jersey rivers overflowed.

Record Rochester Snow.

Rochester, under a 13-inch snowfall, fought its worst storm in 15 years. Other sections were covered to a depth of 8½ inches and roads were clogged. Hundreds of motorists were marooned in Vermont and New Hampshire and forced to seek shelter in farmhouses.

The Passaic River in New Jersey, swelled by yesterday's snow and rain, became a raging stream and spilled over its banks. The same was true of the Ramapo and Pequannock Rivers.

Twenty-three deaths in accidents in the metropolitan area were attributed to the storm, which unroofed buildings, uprooted trees and strewed wreckage over a wide territory. Along the New Jersey coast the gale reached 54 miles an hour. Shipping was warned to seek shelter from Sandy Hook, N. J., to Eastport, Me. In New York, ferry slips and some streets were flooded by high tides.

Traffic Clotted by Snow.

Chicago, March 9 (A.P.).—The Middlewest's arteries of traffic, clotted with a week-end snow, throbbed with life again today. Regiments of men, machines and a genial sun together peeled away the sheath of ice and the drifts of a 16-inch snowstorm that had brought bane and boon alike to the people of the Plains States—boon

Balkan Temblor Toll May Be More Than 150

Relief Work Handicapped by Breakdown of Communications, as Rail Lines and Bridges Are Destroyed; Hundreds Made Homeless.

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, March 9 (A.P.).—With the dead unofficially reported at about 150, though some rumors placed the number much higher, the seriousness of earthquakes during the week-end in the region of the Jugoslav, Bulgarian and Greek frontiers, began to be fully realized today.

Communication with all the affected areas had not been reestablished, but it was known that many villages had been devastated. Hundreds of peasants had been made homeless and bridges and railway lines were destroyed. Suffering from cold and hunger was widespread.

Relief work was handicapped by the breakdown of communications and it was only with the greatest difficulty that food, medicine and warm clothing were taken into regions where it was most needed.

The famous frontier town of Strumnitza, which figured prominently in the Balkan Wars, sustained heavy damage, buildings toppling and cafe ceilings crashing in on patrons. The town of Skoplje was still cut off, but refugees from that region reported heavy damage.

At Demirkapu and Gevghell, in the Vardar Valley, motion picture theaters collapsed and a railroad bridge across the Vardar River fell. The town of Valandovi was in ruins, and at Pirava every building was damaged.

King Alexander spent the whole day traveling from one stricken village to another, encouraging the sufferers and personally supervising relief work.

Many of the simple peasants spent last night and today in the open, braving the bitter cold because they were afraid to go back in the buildings left standing.

Refugees from some of the isolated regions straggled into Belgrade with stories of terrifying phenomena.

There was a great subterranean rumbling in the Valley of Struma, they said, and an avalanche of rock rolled down the mountainside, as

CAR FARE RAISE PLEA DENIED BY UTILITIES BODY

Traction Companies Told to Await Results of Student Rate.

EFFECT ON REVENUE SEEN AS INDEFINITE

May Consider Adjustment, if Losses Are Appreciable, at Future Date.

The Public Utilities Commission late yesterday decided to deny the requests of the two street car lines to take the initiative in adjusting adult fares so as to compensate them for anticipated losses resulting from the 3-cent school rate.

It was also agreed that no demands of the transportation companies would be considered until the school fare had been given a reasonable trial to determine what its effects will be on their revenue. When, and if, appreciable losses are found to result, the street car and bus companies will be obliged to present formal demands for what adjustments they desire.

Although officials of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. and the Capital Traction Co. have on several occasions insisted that provisions be made for increased adult rates to offset the reduction in fare for school children, yesterday was the first time that the commission took any stand on the matter.

Requests Were Ignored.

The first formal indication of the demands of the street car lines appeared at the school fare hearing held by the utilities body on January 26. Then, just prior to the issuance of the order regulating the 3-cent fare, both street car lines and the Washington Rapid Transit Co. wrote letters to the commission asking that provisions be made in the order to offset expected losses.

These requests were ignored. A few days later John H. Hanna, president of the Capital Traction Co., and William F. Ham, president of the Washington Railway & Electric Co., wrote more emphatic letters to the commission insisting that it adjust adult fares of its own accord.

All the requests made to the commission in this regard have consistently evaded any figures or recommendations regarding in what manner and how much adult fares should

5 PROGRESSIVE LEADERS GIVEN SPEECH TOPICS

Vital Issues of Country to Be Discussed at Parley Here.

PROHIBITION IS LEFT OUT AS UNDESIRABLE

Carlton Hotel to Be Scene of Sessions; 150 Are Likely to Attend.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

As liberals in various parts of the country were preparing to gather here for tomorrow's Progressive conference, five United States senators who will play the leading roles, were given their oratorical assignments.

To Senator Borah (Republican), of Idaho, was assigned the topic of agriculture. If Borah speaks his mind, he will assail the Federal Farm Board and again advocate the debenture plan as one solution for the farmer's economic ills.

The other assignments were as follows:

Senator Norris (Republican), of Nebraska, public utilities; Senator La Follette (Republican), of Wisconsin, unemployment and industrial stabilization; Senator-elect Costigan, of Colorado, the tariff; Senator Cutting (Republican), of New Mexico, return to representative government.

General Discussion Planned.

Each senator will, in effect, make a keynote speech. Having delivered it, he will call for a general discussion by those in attendance.

The conference will start tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock and so much time will be allotted for each subject. In the end there probably will be a round-up discussion of all five problems.

The task of actually drawing up a Progressive legislative program to be presented at the next session of Congress, when the Progressives will hold the balance of power in the two houses, will be carried out during the spring and summer months.

150 Expected to Attend.

At the outset, Senator Norris, the leading spirit behind the conference, estimated that there would be about 100 present. The indications are now, however, that the number will be nearer to 150.

In order to take care of this larger assemblage, the sponsors of the conference have decided to hold the sessions in the Carlton Hotel, which has a larger auditorium than the Lafayette.

Senator La Follette yesterday gave out a partial list of those who have

JEALOUSY OF HUSBAND BLAMED IN SLAYING OF VICTIM FOUND IN HOME

Police Called When Man Starts Check Upon Wife's Conduct.

MOTHER OF 4 TAKEN TO DETENTION HOUSE

Father of Slain Virginian Collapses at Bedside; Gun Is Held.

William Lunsford Huff, 25 years old, of Hume Springs, Va., died early this morning at the Casualty Hospital a few hours after he had been taken there with three bullet wounds in his body. One wound, in the head, is believed to have proved fatal, the other two being in the back and right arm.

According to police, Huff was shot by an irate husband and father, Hurtha Ira Dulaney, 33 years old, of 1317 H street northeast, who believed Huff was surreptitiously meeting Mrs. Dulaney in their humble apartment, and who had gone to the apartment with a policeman to investigate his suspicions.

Greeting Allegedly Seen.

Dulaney, police learned, passed by his home early last night and, peering into the windows of his apartment, is said to have seen his wife, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Dulaney, 26 years old, and the mother of his four small children, greeting Huff. He said he took his car to the end of the run at the H street terminal and then went to get a bite to eat.

While he was eating, he told police, he decided to go back to his home and there confront the couple. Huff having previously been asked to refrain from seeing Mrs. Dulaney.

As he neared the house, he phoned the Ninth Precinct and asked that a policeman be sent to the H street address, telling them a man was in the house. Policeman W. L. Dant was sent in response.

Attempted Escape.

Dulaney and Dant went to the house together, the policeman guarding the rear while Dulaney went up the front steps, shoes in hand. As he opened the door of his apartment, police said, he spied Hoff, who attempted to flee back through the back door, but was stopped by a baby's crib, which blocked the exit.

Dulaney ran to his bed, and from under it grabbed a .32-caliber pistol. He turned quickly as Huff fled through the door and fired four times. Dant heard the shots from his position in the rear and he rushed in in time to arrest Dulaney.

The Casualty Hospital ambulance, summoned by the policeman, took Huff to the hospital. His father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Huff, and a 20-year-old brother, Lewis, all of Hume Spring, were notified of his condition, and they went to the hospital, where they were admitted to the bedside. Shortly afterward, Lewis Huff went to a telephone and requested Ralph W. Frame, 626 Lexington place northeast, a friend of the family, to come to the hospital.

Father of Victim Collapses.

The man's father, Albert A. Huff, collapsed shortly after he arrived at the hospital. The sight of his son brought on a heart attack, and he was removed to another room and given first aid by a staff physician. He told doctors he had been suffering from heart trouble for some time. For several minutes it was thought the shock had been too much for him, and that he might not recover.

Two of the couple's four children, Edward, 20 months old, and George, 5 months old, were in the bedroom at the time of the shooting. Two others, Mary Elizabeth, 2 years old, and Hurtha Ira, jr., 7 years old, were at the home of Mrs. Madeline Johnson, their grandmother, at 1204 H street northwest.

Dulaney Keeps Silence.

Dulaney, from his cell in the Ninth Precinct station house, declared he would refuse to explain anything until he had seen a lawyer. He did not give police any answers to their questions. Ninth Precinct police added to the background of the case when they revealed that a month ago

Invalid Mother Saved From Fire With Son, 4

Little Robert Garner, who was tossed twenty feet from a window when fire swept his home, is shown with Miss Esther Haislip, who tried to save Robert's mother. Inset is Mrs. Violet Ansel, who tried to extinguish the fire singlehanded.

Girl Attendant, 16, Hurt in Leaping Out of Blazing Home.

An invalid woman and her 4-year-old son were rescued when flames partially destroyed their home yesterday at 766 Sixth street southeast. A 16-year-old girl who was attending the sick woman, leaped to safety from a second-story window.

Mrs. Clara Garner, 37, who was confined to bed in the second-floor front room of the house, was carried down a ladder, and her son Robert was tossed to the waiting arms of neighbors who clustered under the window, from which heavy smoke poured.

Esther Haislip, the girl in attend-

NEW EMBASSY HERE AROUSES COMMONS

British Plan to Buy Added Land Brings Building Under Attack.

London, March 9 (A.P.).—The new British Embassy building in Washington came under fire in the House of Commons tonight during debate on a supplementary estimate from the office of works, which included £30,000 (about $150,000) for purchase of extra land for the embassy.

Commander A. R. J. Southby, Conservative, moved reduction of the sum by £1,000, as a parliamentary protest, and asked why the purchase was necessary. He also complained that no satisfactory answer about the Washington building could be obtained from the first commissioner of works.

"Is it true," he asked, "that the design is as bad as popular report says, that the heating pipes go through the larders, that the garage accommodation is hopelessly insufficient for the use of the ambassador and his staff, and that, therefore, fresh expenditure is to be incurred by the taxpayer, to provide accommodations which should have been thought of at the time?"

Replying to these and other criticisms, George Lansbury, first commissioner of works, said there would be opportunity for a full discussion when the main estimates came before the House. The person from whom the extra land was bought was not the same one who sold the original site, but they were paying him the same sum it had cost him, the commissioner said.

No blame was said to be attached to any one for not quite seeing what the layout would be when the architect planned the building, he said. If the extra land which had just been bought had been sold to others for building, Mr. Lansbury added, "This splendid building" would have been blanketed out.

He added that if necessary they now could build on the newly acquired land themselves, putting up structures that would not blanket the embassy buildings.

5 TO 10 YEAR TERMS METED 14 RUSSIANS

Sentences of Few Convicted Antibolsheviki May Be Commuted.

Moscow, March 9 (A.P.).—Russia's second great counter-revolutionary trial in four months, with fourteen prominent Mensheviks accused of antibolshevistic activities, ended today with the defendants receiving sentences ranging from five to ten years in prison.

Death sentences had been asked for seven of them and all confessed fully, but it had been generally believed throughout the hearing that no one would be shot. The sentences imposed today may even be commuted.

Sentences of ten years, with five years additional loss of citizenship, were given the following leaders:

Vladimir Groman, a noted economist; Vasily Sher, manager of the State Bank; Nicholas Sukhanov, Abraham Ginsburg, member of the supreme council of national economy; Michael Yakubovich, former assistant chief of the supplies section of the trade commissariat; Ivan Petunin, of the managing board of the Central Cooperatives; Alexander Finn-Enotayevsky, professor of political economy.

Eight-year terms, with three years additional loss of citizenship, were imposed upon these men:

Lazar Zalkin, of the supreme council of national economy; Boris Berlataky, of the State Bank; Aaron Sokolovsky, of the supreme council of national economy; Vladimir Ikov, a journalist.

Sentences of five years, with two additional years loss of citizenship, went to:

Moses Teitelbaum, of the trade commissariat; Ivan Vookov, of the supreme council of national economy; Isaac Rubin, professor of political economy.

They have 48 hours in which to appeal to the presidium of the all-union congress, the only body with power to commute their terms. It is expected some commutation will be decreed.

$300 Clothing Theft Traced by Victim's Suit

Richard O. Ridgeway, of Seventeenth street, near R street northwest, was the victim of a thief last week. The thief stole a suit case carrying $300 worth of clothing and Ridgeway was loath to part with it.

Last night he went into a lunch room on Ninth street, near Pennsylvania avenue northwest, and was startled to see one of his suits coming in behind him. He went to a telephone, called the police, and Detective Sergt. Larry O'Dea went to the lunch room, where he arrested the wearer of the suit, who gave the name of Louis T. Miller, of Twelfth street, near H street northwest. He is charged with grand larceny.

G. O. P. LAYS PLANS FOR FARMERS' VOTE

Advisory Agricultural Group Formed to Aid Committee Spread Propaganda.

(Associated Press.)

The formation of an advisory council for agriculture to cooperate with the Republican national committee in its work in the farm belt was announced yesterday by Robert H. Lucas.

The executive director of the national committee said the council would have headquarters both in Washington and at an unnamed place in the far West and would begin its organization work immediately in the Midwest and Northwestern States, embracing the corn and wheat belts.

It will be headed by Senator Dickinson, of Iowa, recently elected to the Senate after long service in the House. Other members are Senator Capper, of Kansas, and Representatives Simmons, of Nebraska, and Furnell, of Indiana. All have been active in connection with farm legislation.

Mr. Lucas said the committee would be "actually engaged, both in organization work and in the dissemination of accurate information regarding the various constructive steps which the administration has taken to aid the

78 STRIKE BACKERS ARRESTED AT RIOT

Strife Follows Court Ruling by Philadelphia Court on Hosiery Mill Pickets.

Philadelphia, March 9 (A.P.).—Hosiery strike sympathizers and police clashed again tonight, shortly after common pleas court had handed down a decree upholding the strikers' right to picket, but restraining them from "acts of violence, threats and intimidation."

The disorder occurred in front of the Strahan Hosiery Mill in the Kensington District, where more than 200 strikers and their sympathizers had congregated. Before the crowd was dispersed 78 persons, including 15 women, had been arrested, and charged with inciting to riot. About 50 suffered cuts and bruises and 2 were injured so severely that they required hospital treatment.

The authorities said the trouble started when someone threw a stone.

The court's decree today granted an injunction to the owners of the Apex Hosiery Mill, one of the storm centers in the strike. After the decree was issued officials of the American Federation of Full-Fashioned Hosiery Workers announced that picketing would continue at every mill where a strike is in progress.

Man Dies, Widow Shot In Studio Love Affair

Writings on Death Found in Room as Suicide Pact, Believed Attempted, Fails; Woman's Mate Recently Succumbed to Poison.

Hopkinsville, Ky., March 9 (A.P.).—Mrs. Daisy Dycus, a pretty 24-year-old widow of five weeks, was wounded seriously today by Jim McClure, 59, a photographer, who attempted to enter in a death pact with her before killing himself.

The body of McClure, shot through the head, was found in his bedroom, back of his dingy upstairs studio, shortly after Mrs. Dycus, bleeding from wounds about the head, ran screaming down the stairs from the studio. In the room was a collection of writings on suicide and death. Scrawled on a piece of paper near the body was a verse by Goethe, that it was beautiful to die with a loved one.

McClure's hands were crossed. There was a pistol on his stomach. There were red stains on the floor. A water basin and a towel on a dresser were stained red.

McClure called her to his studio this morning. Mrs. Dycus said, telling her he had a new picture of her. A number of pictures of her were found in the studio. She said that after locking the door he offered her a glass of grape juice, but she declined, suspecting it contained poison. Mrs. Dycus said McClure then shot her twice in the left side of the head, and she fell unconscious. When she rallied, she related, McClure struck her over the head with the butt of the pistol, inflicting severe contusions and breaking her nose. She broke away and fled to the office of a physician across the street. She said she did not know when McClure was shot.

Coroner E. C. Stevens returned a verdict of suicide. A month ago he held an inquest in the death of Mrs. Dycus' husband as a result of which Dycus' stomach was sent to the University of Kentucky laboratory for analysis. Police revealed today the test showed Dycus' stomach contained poison. Police said this information has been presented the grand jury now in session.

Mr. McClure, a widower for twenty years, left a note addressed to Mrs. Dycus' mother, Mrs. Bedford Scott, of Hilton, Ky., saying: "Daisy and I are in love and have been engaged, but we can't be married because we wouldn't be happy. So we have decided to die together. I love her so much I don't see how I can kill her, but it will be done some way. I want to be buried in the same grave with her. She mustn't be buried beside her husband."

Byrd Planning to Explore Other Parts of Antarctic

Conqueror of Polar Wastelands Indicates Continent May Exist in Vast Untouched Region Between Africa and South America.

Miami, Fla., March 9 (A.P.).—Rear Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd, aerial conqueror of polar wastelands, is planning another voyage toward the South Pole for further explorations, he announced today.

Byrd said no date had been set for the second voyage, but it will not be started until after scientists who accompanied him on his first exploration have completed their work. This, he said, will take from eight to nine months.

Neither would he name the goal of the second expedition, but indicated it would take him back to Antarctic. He said:

"There is a vast unexplored area on the other side of the South Pole about which nobody knows. It may be another continent, and I am anxious to find out."

The region, Byrd continued, might be approached from South America or from Africa, with the lower tip of the former continent about 2,000 miles nearer the unexplored country.

Airplanes would be the mode of travel best suited to the trip, he said, and he thought a base such as that in Little America would have to be established.

Ill Treatment Is Charged To Jail Heads By Herrick

Former Member of House Is Bitter After Serving Dry Law Term.

Baltimore, March 9 (A.P.).—Manuel Herrick, former Oklahoma member of Congress, sentenced last October to six months in jail on charges that he helped make moonshine liquor, made a protest here today about the treatment he said he was accorded at the Centerville Jail.

Herrick was released yesterday. The food was bad and the bedding dirty, he asserted, and added that he was denied many privileges other prisoners enjoyed.

Herrick told District Attorney Simon E. Sobeloff that other prisoners were permitted to stroll to the postoffice for their mail, attend motion picture shows and to take walks in the

MANUEL HERRICK.

Calvin Coolidge Says:

The retirement of Chairman Legge, of the Farm Board, brings to mind the enormous amount of service, often accompanied with large personal expense, which the Federal Government received without giving full compensation. In both houses of the Congress, the courts, the Cabinet, the Diplomatic Service and the executive boards are hundreds of men giving their time and spending their money from a sense of public duty. They are great businessmen, bankers, professional men and the experts in many fields.

This is not the largest contribution they make. An even greater sacrifice is required of them in the public misrepresentation and abuse to which they often find themselves subjected as soon as they are proposed for office. We can understand the dollar-a-year man who served in time of war. Sometimes he was an object of attack, but usually he was thanked. These peace-time men show an even higher order of courage and patriotism. They are entitled to everlasting gratitude for the public service they perform. No one can contemplate them without realizing the reserve strength of our Nation. So long as this great reservoir of public service remains we can thankfully believe that the foundations of the Republic are secure.

Dulaney reported his wife missing, and she returned later refusing to explain her absence.

John Conley, 23 years old, a resident of the same apartment house with Dulaney, was requested by the latter, on his way out in police custody, to "clean up the place and watch it" until he came back. The gun declared to have been used by Dulaney is in the hands of the police. Mrs. Dulaney is at the House of Detention.

Arkansas Senate Booms Robinson for President

Little Rock, Ark., March 9 (A.P.).—Senator Joe T. Robinson was boomed for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency in 1932 in a resolution adopted unanimously by the Arkansas Senate today.

The resolution declared the Arkansas senator's nomination and election would "retrieve the Nation" from the greatest peace-time crisis in its history.

"We acknowledge with millions of others the outstanding ability, the indomitable courage, unquestioned integrity and the universally recognized leadership of the great statesman and patriot, the Hon. Joseph Taylor Robinson," the resolution continued.

Three Are Apprehended After $13,000 Robbery

Berlin, Conn., March 9 (A.P.).—State police late today arrested three young men in connection with the $13,000 robbery in the Berlin Savings Bank this morning. Two of the men were found in the hay mow of a barn and most of the stolen money was recovered. The police used pitchforks to locate the hidden pair.

The men arrested are Paul Panasiewich, 17; his brother, Walter, 22, both of this town, and Bud Fisher, 22, of Meriden. Paul was arrested earlier in the day, while the others were traced to the Panasiewich barn.

Railway Crew Rescues 20 Marooned Students

Bartlett, N. H., March 9 (A.P.).—A party of twenty Groveton High School students was rescued by railroad workers tonight, after spending eighteen hours in their automobiles, marooned without food by a snowslide near Crawford Notch.

Their plight was discovered by a crew of railroad snow shovelers, who dug through the deep drifts that covered the tracks and the adjacent highway for a distance of nearly half a mile.

Plane-Commuting Time Broken by Chamberlin

Jersey City, N. J., March 9 (U.P.).—Another new commuting record was established today when Clarence Chamberlin, transatlantic flier, landed at the Jersey City airport 48 minutes after he had taken off from Baltimore.

The distance is approximately 170 miles, and Chamberlin flew the Crosley-Lockheed plane in which Ruth Nichols set a new altitude record for women several days ago.

Panama City Reached By Secretary Adams

Panama City, March 9 (A.P.).—Charles Francis Adams, Secretary of the Navy, arrived today aboard the cruiser Chester to witness maneuvers of the combined scouting and battle fleets.

The Chester made the trip from Hampton Roads to Cristobal in 66 hours. After it passed through the Panama Canal Mr. Adams went aboard the battleship Texas, flagship of the fleet.

Congress Neglect Of Dry Issue Seen

Magazine Predicts Views Will Not Force Vote on Amendment.

(United Press.)

A statement that more than two-thirds of the next Congress "by conscientious conviction" will favor repeal or modification of prohibition, but not to the extent of voting that way, was made yesterday in Cosmopolitan Magazine.

The magazine announced results of a secret and confidential poll of 200 of the 531 members of the next Congress. Their "actual convictions," the magazine said, were divided as follows: For continuation of the present law, 61; for modification of the Volstead act, 70; for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, 69. Pressure from constituencies and other factors will prevent any vote against prohibition, however, it is added.

The poll also sought political judgments of the legislators on Republican and Democratic presidential nominees next year. Their predictions, not their personal choices, were summarized as follows: Republicans: Herbert Hoover, 101; Dwight W. Morrow, 78; Calvin Coolidge, 18; Gifford Pinchot, 3. Democrats: Franklin D. Roosevelt, 59; Albert C. Ritchie, 37; Owen D. Young, 27; James A. Reed, 21; Robert J. Bulkley, 20; Newton D. Baker, 18; Alfred E. Smith, 18; Joseph T. Robinson, 8.

Seven Workers in Bank Indicted by Grand Jury

Helena, Ark., March 9 (A.P.).—Seven former bank officials and employes, including a president, vice president and cashier, were indicted by the Federal grand jury here today on charges of embezzlement and misappropriation of funds.

All had been arrested previously and were free under bonds, which were allowed to stand on the indictments.

Fleming, trgasurer of the Republican national congressional committee, showed an expenditure of $3,818 during the first two months of the current year. U. S. LEAGUE STAND IS COMMONS TOPIC

Sir Austen Chamberlain's View Is That America Will Never Join.

London, March 9 (A.P.).—The question of whether the United States would ever join the League of Nations occupied the attention of the House of Comomns today during part of the debate on the government's resolution that Great Britain should accept the league's general act for pacific settlement of international disputes.

The view that America would not join the League of Nations was expressed by Sir Austen Chamberlain (Conservative), who moved an official Conservative amendment contrary to the resolution. "I know of no man who thinks it probable that the United States will join the league," he said.

Sir Norman Angell (Laborite), was not so certain, however. "Having passed ten years of my life in the United States, that country will increasingly engage in international cooperation, which will end in her membership in the League of Nations. There are powerful forces in America in favor of increasing cooperation with the international organization and with the league."

Arbitration Introduced.

Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary, earlier had introduced the resolution for acceptance of the league's general arbitration act. Last week France ratified her adherence to the act.

By 231 votes against 139 the House of Commons tonight approved a resolution that the British government should accede to the general act of the league for pacific settlement of international disputes.

This general act has been described as an extension of the optional clause, which the present British government signed with reservations in 1929, since it binds the signatories to submit to arbitration all disputes not settled through the usual diplomatic channels. The optional clause dealt only with the settlement of justifiable disputes.

Debate Without Incident.

Tonight's debate proceeded without incident. Government spokesmen insisted that Britain's signature on the general act should be the logical conclusion to her agreement to the Kellogg-Briand antiwar pact and the optional clause.

Opposition speakers expressed fear that undertaking to submit disputes to the various bodies set up by the general act would weaken the authority of the League of Nations council.

The Liberal party voted with the government and accounted for the large majority.

Card Sharps' Ring In Monaco Broken

Monte Carlo Patrons Lost $15,000 by Scheme, Police Claim.

Monte Carlo, Monaco, March 9 (A.P.).—Police today had arrested all but one of a gang of alleged international card sharps who are accused of fleecing players at the Sporting Club, most fashionable gambling resort on the Riviera, of $15,000 by ingeniously marked cards.

The scheme was planned, police say, by a Spaniard, Louis Ojeda, who invented a chemical preparation for marking cards with symbols that are invisible unless viewed through specially colored glasses. The gang through the baccarat croupier, is alleged to have obtained new packs of cards from the club, steamed them open to mark them with the preparation, and replaced the packs in the gambling rooms.

One confederate wearing the special colored glasses would stand behind the banker and spot the cards. He then signaled his partner, facing the dealer, who could bet on the outcoming cards. A fight over division of the spoils led to police discovery of the swindle.

Three Areas Gain In Employment

New England, Southeast and Southwest Show Improvement.

(Associated Press.)

Col. Arthur Woods, head of the President's emergency committee for employment, yesterday said conditions were improving over a considerable portion of the country.

New England territory, the Southwest and the Southeast were specifically cited, little change being noted in the Pacific Coast zone and in the central portion of the United States bordering the Great Lakes.

William Phillips, representing the committee in New England, reported "a distinct upward trend in New Hampshire employment," mentioning particularly "speeding up of leather, textile and shoe operations." He estimated that 1,500 workers had been returned to watch-making in Waltham, Mass., and 400 cotton mill employes added to pay rolls at Fall River.

Berlin Welcomes Charlie Chaplin

Film Star Given Ovation as He Arrives for Premiere of His Picture.

Berlin, March 9 (A.P.).—Charlie Chaplin set foot in Berlin today in a snowstorm reminiscent of the closing scene in his picture, "The Gold Rush," and found a great crowd waiting to greet him. He came from London to attend the premiere of his new picture.

When Chaplin first visited Berlin in 1922 he was so little known that he would have been denied a table at an evening club but for the accidental presence of Pola Negri. She recognized the screen comedian as a colleague and vouched for him.

Today an enthusiastic crowd made such a rush to meet Chaplin that two hours before his train was due the railway company halted the sale of the platform tickets, which one must have in Germany to greet a train arrival.

Maryland House Passes Antisegregation Bill

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 9.—By a vote of 92 to 10 the House tonight passed a bill that relieves railroads and steamboat companies operating in the State from providing separate accommodation for Negro passengers.

The bill was sponsored by the Montgomery County delegation.

TAFT'S GRAVE MARKED SIMPLY

The first anniversary of the death of former Chief Justice William Howard Taft found his grave in Arlington National Cemetery still marked by a simple wooden headpiece with no words on it other than his name. A spray of carnations was the only decoration on the grave on the anniversary, which was Sunday.

DROUGHT LOAN FUND COMMITTEES READY

State Groups Are Prepared to Handle Applications of Credit Agencies.

(Associated Press.)

State committees to pass on credit corporations and live stock loan companies seeking drought loans funds are ready for business.

Lewis T. Tune, of St. Louis, chairman of the national advisory loan committee, said yesterday the State groups were prepared to handle requests from persons interested in forming credit corporations or in increasing the stock of such organizations.

Ten million dollars has been set aside by the Agriculture Department out of the supplemental $20,000,000 drought loan fund for the corporations.

Mr. Tune predicted the organizations would prove of permanent value to the communities, and emphasized it was advisable in most cases to strengthen existing agriculture credit corporations and live stock loan companies rather than attempt to form new ones.

Maj. Gen. B. Frank Cheatham, of Washington, D. C., was appointed by Secretary Hyde yesterday as a member of the national loan committee, completing its personnel.

The other member, besides Mr. Tune, is B. C. Powell, of Little Rock, Ark.

The committees have offices in these cities:

Montgomery, Ala.; Little Rock, Ark.; Atlanta, Ga.; Springfield, Ill.; Evansville, Ind.; Louisville, Ky.; Baltimore, Md.; Jackson, Miss.; St. Louis, Mo.; Raleigh, N. C.; Columbus, Ohio, Columbus, S. C.; Memphis, Tenn.; Dallas, Tex.; Richmond, Va., and Charleston, W. Va.

Committees in some States are incomplete and location of their offices has not been announced.

Walker Leaves for California.

New York, March 9 (A.P.).—Dispensing with the usual ceremony of reporters and photographers, Mayor James J. Walker motored over to Jersey City this afternoon and boarded the 2:20 p. m. Baltimore & Ohio train for the West, bound for a month's vacation in Palm Springs, Calif.

LIQUOR TRIAL DELAY IS GRANTED DENISON

'Leaky Trunk' Case Against Former Representative to Open Tomorrow.

The trial of former Representative Edward S. Denison, of Illinois, scheduled to begin yesterday in the court of Justice Peyton Gordon, was postponed at the request of defense counsel until tomorrow morning.

The postponement followed a brief discussion in court, when defense counsel and Justice Gordon agreed that the case had dragged along, and should be brought to a hearing. The Government, represented by Assistant United States Attorneys Irving Goldstein and John J. Sirica, was ready to go to trial and the prosecution witnesses, many of them prohibition agents, were ready to be heard.

The Denison case attracted Nationwide interest because all the action centered in the House Office Building. A "leaking trunk" was the basis for the delayed indictment of Representative Denison.

The trunk was consigned to Representative Denison at his office and prohibition agents discovered that its contents, or at least a portion of them, had sprung a leak. Defense attorneys claim the trunk was addressed to the wrong person.

Rear Adm. McCully Will Retire on July 1

(Associated Press.)

Rear Admiral Newton A. McCully, who adopted seven Russian war orphans in 1920, will retire from the Navy on July 1.

The Navy yesterday ordered him detached from the active list on June 15, preparatory to his retirement. He reaches the retirement age of 64 on June 19. Admiral McCully, the commander of the Charleston, S. C., Naval District, will return to Anderson, S. C., his birthplace, to live. The admiral saw notable service in the World War, much of it in Russian waters. Since the war he has held important diplomatic posts and naval commands.

Governors to Be Represented.

Thus far none of the five governors who were invited to the conference has agreed to attend. Some of them, however, are sending representatives here.

Gov. Roosevelt of New York, who is popular with many progressives, has decided to stay away from the conference. The men who are grooming him for the Democratic presidential nomination believe that it would be very poor politics for him to come here and listen while his own party, as well as the Republican party, is being denounced.

The sponsors of the conference deliberately left prohibition out of the agenda, and they are hoping that nobody starts a discussion of it while the conference is on.

farmers and to save them from bankruptcy in this critical period of economic depression and drought."

The following statement on the plans and purposes of the council was issued by Mr. Dickinson:

"In cooperation with those associated with me in this council it is our hope to secure proper contact in various localities outside of the regular political channels and interest these parties in the various farm measures that have been passed under the Republican administration and to interest these parties in the dissemination of proper information concerning these legislative policies.

"Also to approach the various farm and cooperative organizations from the economic point of view and suggest to them the protection being given farm commodities under the Republican protective tariff system and the benefit of the cooperative farm relief program now in process of promotion. To contact various officials and distribute among them this information and solicit approval of the above suggestions.

"It is the belief of those interested in this movement that it will be a source of real strength in furthering the interest of the Republican party in the rural localities, especially in the Middle West and the Northwest."

VOTE IS ADVOCATED UPON FUTURE WARS

McGowan Urges Referendum Before Any New Hostilities Begin.

(Associated Press.)

Adoption of a constitutional amendment to prevent this country from going to war without a referendum of its citizens, except when attacked, was advocated yesterday by Rear Admiral Samuel McGowan, retired.

This recommendation, made before the War Policies Commission, drew immediate opposition from Chairman Johnson, of the House veterans committee, and Brig. Gen. Delafield, former chairman of the War Department Board of Contract Adjustments. Mr. Johnson described the referendum plan as "impracticable" and Gen. Delafield termed it "unnecessary."

Continuing its search for a means of eliminating the profits from war, the commission received indorsements of the Baruch plan to prevent profiteering by "freezing" all prices during a war.

Under the plan, proposed by Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board during the World War, all prices would be fixed by presidential proclamation at the prewar level.

Admiral McGowan, paymaster and chief supply officer of the Navy during the war, said the Constitution should provide that this country could not declare war unless a majority of its citizens favored that action in a referendum.

He added that the amendment also should provide that if the referendum resulted in war, every ablebodied male citizen between the ages of 18 and 35 should be drafted. He also advocated prohibiting any increases in wages during war.

The three witnesses indorsed the Baruch plan, but Mr. Johnson said he still favored the proposal he has been urging before Congress for eight years to conscript all manpower and labor.

He added, however, that he realized this could not be enacted because of formidable opposition, and urged the commission to find some practical plan to eliminate war profits that would be as close to that "ideal" as possible.

Mr. Johnson predicted that legislation of the kind under consideration would be voted upon in the next Congress, and urged the commission to formulate a program prior to that time.

Admiral Delafield advocated legislation to "freeze" war-time prices, saying it would not only save valuable time in case of war to have such a law on the books but would promote peace.

'Flaming' Murder Trial Nears End

Indiana Prosecutor Asks Death Penalty for Virgil Kirkland.

Valparaiso, Ind., March 9 (A.P.).—The life of Virgil Kirkland was asked by State prosecutors today as a "forfeit" for the death of 48-year-old Arlene Draves on a "flaming youth" drinking party last November. "When this youth attacked Arlene Draves he forfeited his life to Indiana and society," Prosecutor John Underwood argued in the opening summary of the murder trial.

Court closed after the initial summaries, and when it reopens tomorrow the case will be but a few hours from the jury. Judge Grant Crumpacker had his instructions prepared and said they would include seven possible verdicts:

Murder in the first degree, which may carry a death sentence; murder in the second degree, manslaughter, involuntary manslaughter, assault and battery with ravishment, assault and battery or acquittal.

Turks to Protest Stand of Tribunal

Claims to $200,000,000 in Properties Advanced by Sultan's Heirs.

Istanbul, Turkey, March 9 (A.P.).—The Turkish government is preparing notes to Great Britain, France and Italy, contesting the recent rejection by the mixed tribunals of claims by heirs of Sultan Abdul Hamid to his $200,000,000 properties in Mesopotamia and among the oilfields of Palestine, Syria and Tripoli.

The contest is in behalf of six of the sultan's widows, whose citizenship the government recognizes. By a recent cabinet decision the government has turned over to representatives of the heirs all the sultan's property deeds, heretofore kept among the state archives.

Replies to the notes now being prepared will determine whether the heirs will carry the claims into the courts of the respective countries or will go to The Hague, with the Turkish government's support.

New Yorker Held Guilty in Prague

Scharf Convicted of Hitting Czech and Defaming Government.

Prague, Czechoslovakia, March 9 (A.P.).—Leon Scharf, a New York candy manufacturer, who last September was arrested on charges of defaming the Czechoslovak state and assaulting a citizen, today was sentenced to seven days' imprisonment.

He will not be required to serve it, however, for the court took into consideration the time Scharf spent in custody last fall, and after the first hearing then he was given permission to leave the country. He has filed notice of appeal.

Police said Scharf's trouble began when he tooted his motor car horn too loudly in a traffic jam and a Czech protested. Scharf was alleged to have slaped the man and at the same time have made defamatory remarks concerning the government.

Court Exempts Planes From Auto-Theft Law

(Associated Press.)

The Supreme Court decided yesterday that interstate transportation of an airplane does not constitute a violation of the motor vehicle theft law. The decision was handed down by Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, who was 90 years old Sunday.

The case came to the court in an appeal by William McBoyle, of Galena, Ill. The decision hinged on the question whether an airplane is to be considered a "vehicle" under the terms of the vehicle theft law.

RECORD SNOWS HIT CENTERS OF WORLD

Fall in London Is Heaviest in 20 Years; Rochester Worst in 15.

to the farmers and townsfolk, their fields thirsty after a summer drought and a snowless winter, their wells dry; bane to the public utilities and the transportation agencies, with power and light lines down, telephone poles leveled, boulevards and highways blocked, and trains delayed.

The storm had passed on today and was dissipating in the East. In its wake a bright sun glared over melting fields of snow, although in northern Illinois the temperature remained below freezing and colder weather was forecast, with recurrent flurries of snow a possibility in the next day or two.

The Windy City and Lake Michigan States bore the brunt of the snow and gale. Although the lake rocked with fury, no disasters resulted. Car ferries plunged safely into Wisconsin and Michigan ports and four fishermen rode out the storm in their tug, putting safely into Chicago Harbor.

Blessing to Jobless.

Thousands of jobless counted the heavy snow and mild temperature a blessing, for they were given work digging out. Fist fights were common in Chicago among the besiegers striving for places in the van of the crowd seeking shoveling jobs.

Fair and a bit warmer tomorow, said the forecaster. But he added a warning: "There's another storm brewing in the Pacific Northwest. It's coming our way. When it will get here we can't predict yet, but we expect that when it comes it may be rain or snow."

London, March 9 (A.P.).—Riding down from Iceland on a bitter cold wind, a winter storm held most of Europe in its grasp tonight with frigid temperatures general, except in the southernmost countries, and with deep snow in many sections.

It snowed all day in London and the heaviest fall in twenty years lay several inches deep, seriously impeding traffic. Along the British Coast from the channel to the Orkneys high waves battered shipping and several small vessels ran aground. There was deep snow in the north, causing heavy losses to sheep farmers.

Five Fishermen Dead As Vessel Founders

Newburyport, Mass., March 9 (A.P.).—Wreckage washed ashore on Plum Island today revealed a tragedy at sea that claimed the lives of five fishermen, the crew of the 50-foot motor craft Julia. The little vessel is believed to have floundered in last night's storm, while her crew was trying to find haven in the Merrimack River.

A coast guardsman last night saw the red port light of some vessel and set off two flares as warnings against the dangerous shoals at the river mouth.

Dory Is Washed Ashore; 4 Passengers Missing

New York, March 9 (A.P.).—The Vivian, a dory, which left Greenport, Long Island, Friday morning, was washed ashore last night near Orient Bay, Long Island, her four passengers missing, and presumably lost at sea.

The Coast Guard has no knowledge of who was in the dory. Their only word concerning the Vivian was a telephone request Saturday to be on the lookout for her. The Coast Guard informant said the craft had four men aboard when she left Greenport.

American and British Steamers Battle Gales

London, March 9 (A.P.).—The steamer American Merchant reached Plymouth from New York today, 24 hours late, due to gales and tremendous seas.

The Cunarder, Ascania, due Sunday, radioed she was battling heavy gales, and could not arrive until tomorrow.

TOLL IN EARTHQUAKE BELIEVED ABOUT 150

boiling water spouted through deep fissures in the earth.

The quake closed the Hot Mineral Springs in the vicinity of Strumitza, and the boiling water ripped through the surface at Valandov, 7 miles away, gushing out in steaming geysers. Meanwhile a heavy rain came down, rising again in clouds of steam as the water struck the springs.

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, March 9 (U.P.).—The newspaper Pravda today estimated that 800 persons had been killed and 1,000 injured in the violent earthquake which rocked the Balkans in the past 48 hours.

This alarming report was generally discredited, although officials admitted the death roll was incomplete. Upward of 1,000 survivors are in Belgrade from the quake zone.

New Shocks Reported.

Athens, Greece, March 9 (U.P.).—Two more earthshocks were felt in Macedonia today. They were strongest in the towns of Florida and Vodina. Many houses collapsed, but no casualties were reported.

Meanwhile, landslides and sinking of land in many places in Greece were reported. The small islands of Poros and Leucas were seriously affected, together with the town of Philippias Epirus.

The quakes seriously damaged the Simplon-Orient Railway, on the section along the Graeco-Jugoslav frontier. It was said it would take a week to repair it.

Temblors in Japan.

Tokyo (Tuesday), March 10 (A.P.).—A series of severe earthquakes struck central and northern Japan yesterday and today, damaging much property but apparently causing no casualties.

Hachinohe City police estimated about 480 houses in the Hachinohe district were damaged and cracks appeared in roadways. Press reports stated newspapers of Hachinohe suspended publication for a few days because much type was shaken down and scattered about.

A brewery between Aomori and Morioka was slightly damaged. Telephone service was interrupted, while in Fukushima walls and fences were toppled.

Needle Jumps Off Drum.

The quake was the heaviest on Hokkaido Island, but also was felt in Tokyo. Shop windows were broken and people rushed into the streets. Many chimneys fell.

The needle recording the quake on a seismograph at Hakodate, Hokkaido, jumped off its drum. Clocks in the Hakodate city hall stopped.

GORDON LIFE STORY TOLD BY BISCHOFF

Vivian's Former Husband Planned to Bury Body of Slain Woman.

Special to The Washington Post.

Audubon, N. J., March 9.—The life of Vivian Gordon, slain New York "butterfly," as her husband, now divorced and remaried, knew it, was related in detail today by John E. C. Bischoff, superintendent of industries of the Lorton, Va., workhouse.

Mr. Bischoff, who makes his home in Washington, related the details of his courtship with the then Benita Franklin, of their marriage in 1912, and the subsequent separation the following year after the birth of the daughter, Benita, whose tragic suicide seven days ago created a stir such as blase New York has seldom seen.

He said that after he had applied for a divorce, his wife was arrested in New York City, and that rather than let his daughter bear the stigma of a mother "with a record," he hired a lawyer and succeeded in having his estranged wife placed in his keeping. She rebelled, he said, and other arrangements were made. Again she protested, this time so violently that the judge hearing the case sentenced her to two and a half years.

Planned to Bury Body.

Bischoff revealed also that he had secretly planned to claim Vivian Gordon's body and give it a decent burial. However, he said, a brother, Pierre M. Franklin, of Montreal, Canada, gained the corpse and buried it in Westchester County. Incidentally, the brother is now a patient in a hospital in New York City, where he is said to be tossing fitfully on his cot in a temporary state of delirium, caused, physicians said, by the shock of his sister's death and the death of his niece.

As a parting declaration Mr. Bischoff said: "I want to remove the impression that I have in any way been responsible for the later life and ultimate death of Vivian Gordon. I tried to do what was right even after she left me."

Sisters Escape Misfortune.

Detroit, March 9 (A.P.).—Miss Lillian Franklin Thurston, sister of the slain Vivian Gordon, has escaped the epidemic of misfortunese which have come to other members of the family recently.

Miss Thurston, who is about 28 years old, took the name from a family which gave her a home here after the death of her parents, 23 years ago. Douglas A. Thurston, head of the family, said that when his wife died recently she left the foster daughter a considerable sum of money.

Miss Arnolds Franklin, another sister, who is in Cincinnati, formerly lived here and worked for the Detroit Board of Health. She left about two years ago.

HERRICK OBJECTS TO JAIL PRACTICES

Former Member of House Is Bitter After Serving Dry Law Term.

country. But he said he was not permitted to leave the jail.

Herrick, who served one term in the Harding administration, was given transportation to St. Mary's County, where he was arrested last summer while working at a still as a $15-a-week handy man. He would not say what his plans were.

William P. Airey and Pius B. Ennels, the latter a Negro, sentenced along with Herrick, also were released.

Herrick asserted at his trial here that he took the job at the still to obtain evidence, but Federal prohibition officials at Washington denied that he had been given a commission as an undercover man. Herrick said he lost 46 pounds during the time he was in jail, and asserted: "One prisoner, a privileged character, got the other prisoners down on me. They would wash the walls with my clean shirts and put rotten eggs between the sheets on my bunk. They'd throw wads of wet paper at my head and a boy living nearby used to shoot nails at me from his air rifle.

"I've got facts here that will blow the roof off if they ever go into them."

Queen Anne County jailers denied all the charges, saying: "He tried to make trouble for us from the day he arrived until the day he left. He was treated kindly and received the same food as the other prisoners. He had the run of four or five large rooms, with only the big door leading down stairs locked."

Trials of 13 Accused Strikers Are Delayed

Danville, Va., March 9 (A.P.).—The trial of thirteen men indicted in connection with alleged attack on C. W. McKellar, a nonunion worker and his daughter, Irene McKellar, in Schoolfield during the recent textile strike, was postponed in the Corporation Court today until tomorrow.

Several of the accused said they had been unable to secure counsel and asked until tomorrow to do so.

THREE ARE INDICTED IN TENNESSEE CASES

Rogers Caldwell, Col. Lea and Basil Ramsey Held in Bank Failures.

Nashville, Tenn., March 9 (A.P.).—Indictments brought today against three men, whose names have been closely linked with Tennessee's financial and political structures, climaxed legislative and grand jury investigations into the collapse of several banking houses last November. More than $6,650,000 in State funds was on deposit in the banks that crashed.

Federal indictments returned at Greeneville charged Rogers Caldwell, president of the defunct investment house of Caldwell & Co.; Col. Luke Lea, Nashville publisher and political leader, and J. Basil Ramsey, president of the closed Holston Union National Bank at Knoxville, with violating the national banking laws in connection with the bank's transactions.

Caldwell Makes $50,000 Bond.

Shortly after these indictments had become public, the Davidson County grand jury here returned two true bills against Caldwell in connection with operations of Caldwell & Co. and the Bank of Tennessee, a subsidiary. Caldwell made bond of $50,000, furnished by his 76-year-old father, James E. Caldwell, and F. E. Murray, Nashville capitalist and part owner of the Minneapolis Baseball Club of the American Association.

The bond was arranged without the personal appearance of Rogers Caldwell, the 41-year-old banker, whose investment firm crashed with $40,000,000 liabilities.

Meanwhile, Col. Lea issued a statement, proclaiming innocence of any law violation and declaring he would "await with confidence an early and complete vindication." He said: "For months there has been a campaign to destroy me in every way."

Five State Indictments.

Ramsey also stands charged in five State indictments at Knoxville with fraudulent breach of trust and larceny in connection with operations of the Holston Trust Co., an affiliate of the Holston Union National Bank.

In two Federal indictments the three were charged with conspiracy to violate the national banking laws and with two specific violations of them. They were alleged to have conspired for the commission by Ramsey of a false entry and of a misapplication of the bank's credit. Ramsey was accused of comitting the actual acts, with Lea and Caldwell aiding and abetting him.

The defendants will be arraigned in May and the date of their trials set. Bond of $25,000 each was fixed.

Youth Put on Trial In Attack on Girl

40 Witnesses Will Appear in Virginia Court at Junius Scoggin Hearing.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., March 9.—Junius Scoggin, 21, of Altavista, went on trial today in the Patrick circuit court, at Stuart, charged with abducting and attacking Miss Mary Norman, 22, Martinsville school teacher and local college graduate, last December.

Relatively few of the 40 witnesses summoned had been heard when court adjourned this evening. While two felony charges are contained in the indictments the defense indicated its purpose to show that there was no compulsion.

The State contended that the accused forcibly carried the prosecutrix to a house in Patrick County. Five attorneys are prosecuting the accused, and one is defending him.

Eaker Plans Take-Off On Record Nonstop Try

Long Beach, Calif., March 9 (A.P.).—Capt. Ira C. Eaker, United States Army flier, planned to take off from the Municipal Airport here at midnight in a new and fast Army plane on a nonstop flight to New York. Capt. Eaker said favorable weather reports at midnight would launch his powerful plane on what may prove a record-smashing flight.

The flight was said by Army officers to be a test hop to determine the mobility of troops by plane.

Surgeons' Radio Knife Uses Human 'Antennae'

Atlanta, Ga., March 9 (A.P.).—The patient, himself, is "the antennae of a miniature broadcasting station when the radio knife is used in a surgical operation, the Southeastern Surgical Congress meeting here, was told today. H. C. Lowry, of Chicago, said the knife is capable of broadcasting a message for 80 meters, and that the patient "serves as the antennae of the set and the vacuum tube pulls the radio frequencies generated over the desired area."

Mr. Lowry said the radio knife may be used in any type of surgery, with bloodlessness and quick healing its chief advantages.

The knife, he said, is particularly useful in brain and lung surgery, inasmuch as it checks hemorrhages.

"A tonsil operation is play when it is done by a skilled surgeon with a radio knife," he said.

COMMISSION DENIES PLEA FOR FARE RISE

Tells Street Car Companies Group Will Await Trial of Student Rate.

be increased. It was generally understood, however, that the traction officials are seeking higher token rates.

Letters stating the commission's decision will be sent to the transportation companies today. Members of the commission declined to say what would be considered a "reasonable" time of testing the school fares to determine the effect on revenues.

3-Cent Fare Effective Today.

Washington school children will begin riding the street cars for 3 cents today, instead of 8 cents. Thousands of books of tickets were sold by street car representatives in the schools yesterday. The exact number will not be known until today.

Tickets were sold during the luncheon periods. After today, they will have to be purchased at one of the 50 odd agencies in various parts of the city. A list of these places is posted at all schools.

As an example of the smoothness with which the sales were conducted yesterday, 900 books of tickets were disposed of at Eastern High School in 90 minutes, it was learned. Elementary school pupils began buying tickets yesterday at the agencies, as street car representatives did not visit these schools.

The tickets are sold in books of 10 and 40. Each time a pupil buys a book, he must present an application signed by his teacher, and then he must have the teacher sign the book before he can use it. These precautions are taken to avoid possible bootlegging of the reduced street car fares, Earl V. Fisher, executive secretary of the Public Utilities Commission, who is in charge of the sale of tickets, pointed out.

Must Have Ticket Books.

Tickets are not acceptable on the trolley cars unless presented with the ticket book covers. Parents or children should not detach tickets without having the book with them.

School officials have objected to the additional work that has been imposed on teachers in having to sign names hundreds of times each week, but they have agreed with the street car companies to try out the system for a week.

Stephen E. Kramer, assistant superintendent of schools, who has been in charge of the ticket sales in the schools, said that continuation of the system would depend on the amount of additional work that the teachers have to do. If it is found that too much of a hardship is being imposed, school officials will ask that the system be discontinued, and another substituted, Mr. Kramer said.

The Washington Railway & Electric Co. yesterday established two new ticket agencies. One is its shops at 2411 P street northwest, while the other is in the Tenleytown car barn at Wisconsin avenue and Military road.

The Capital Traction Co. changed one of its agencies from the Seventh Street Savings Bank to the Simpson drug store at Seventh street and Rhode Island avenue northwest.

Hotel Puts Curb On Bottled Goods

Shoreham Hits 'Set-Ups' for Liquor Drinking in Its Dining Rooms.

Inaugurating a policy which hotel officials believe may solve "prohibition problems," the Shoreham Hotel yesterday banned all bottled goods in its dining room.

Under the new system at the Shoreham "sets-ups" for liquor drinking will be difficult to get. Soft drinks will be served only as they are from soda fountains—in the glass.

The change was made, L. Gardner Moore, manager, said, in an effort to cooperate with the prohibition bureau in its efforts to prevent public drinking. Mr. Moore said that the new rule would not apply to room service.

ance, made a valiant effort to save the ill woman, but was forced to leap from the window when heat and smoke drove her to safety.

Miss Haislip was slightly injured in her 20-foot jump and was treated at Providence Hospital for lacerations of the left arm.

An oil cooking stove in the kitchen of the house is believed to have started the blaze. Miss Haislip discovered the fire and called an alarm to neighbors. Meanwhile, Mrs. Violet Ansel tried to quench the fire, but it gained headway on her.

Firemen placed a ladder to the front window and she was carried to safety in the home of a neighbor. Mrs. Garner and her son suffered shock. The house was damaged to the extent of $1,500.

The first was one of a series of misfortunes that has struck the Garner family in the last few months. Ira E. Garner, husband of Mrs. Garner, has been out of work for several months. All the family's clothing was lost in the blaze.

BONUS INQUIRERS GO TO SOLDIERS' HOME

Seek to Learn if Papers Were Stolen; Three of Six Men Freed.

Investigators of the Veterans' Bureau were at work yesterday in the Soldiers' Home at Old Point Comfort, Va., trying to learn if any of the adjusted compensation certificates and discharge papers of the inmates had been stolen.

This move was taken after the detention here of three men, who are being held in connection with the disappearance of bonus papers and discharge papers from a mental patient at the home.

Three of the six men, who were arrested Saturday by M. P. McInerney, special investigator for the Veterans' Bureau, and local detectives, were released from custody yesterday after they had been thoroughly questioned at headquarters.

Those still held are Joseph F. Frye, 34; Thomas C. Evans, 51, and James I. Moore, 38. They were arrested after an attempt was said to have been made to borrow on the adjusted compensation certificates of Michael J. Higgins, a war veteran at the Old Point Comfort Soldiers' Home.

These released yesterday were Bernard E. Lowry, 26; Dewey E. Yerbey, 32, and George Dross, 31.

Veterans Fined For Bonus Sprees

Judge Punishes Borrowers Who Spend Cash for Drink.

Hard-luck stories by World War veterans, in another array in Police Court on miscellaneous charges, mainly intoxication, after spending or losing money obtained from their adjusted service compensation certificates exhausted the patience yesterday of Judge Ralph Given.

He imposed a fine of $25 or 30 days in jail on Philip Grayson, of Philadelphia, Pa., on an intoxication charge, following the man's arrest Saturday night by Second Precinct Policeman R. M. Kesseling. Grayson told about being robbed and "left to die" on the streets by hoodlums after obtaining his bonus.

Other veterans facing the court, all on intoxication charges, were Frank J. Curry, who in his third appearance before Judge Given in a week, was sentenced to 60 days in jail or $50; Joseph M. Comisky, $10, or 10 days; Edward C. Williams $10, or 10 days; John J. Leary, $10 or 10 days.

Cold Moist Air
Cold Dry Air

It is the circulating moist cold air in the refrigerator which keeps food fresh—air which receives moisture by passing continuously over the ice. Moisture is of vital importance to food.

If the air in a refrigerator lacks moisture fruits and vegetables will dry up, giving off the water that keeps them fresh. Meat loses its flavor and salads become limp.

OATH ADMINISTERED TO JUSTICE PROCTOR

Relatives and Friends Join With Court Associates in Ceremony.

James M. Proctor, a leading member of the District bar for many years, was sworn in as an associate justice of the District Supreme Court in general term yesterday morning.

He succeeds Justice William Hitz. His induction into office was made by Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat, in the presence of the seven other associate justices, Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy, retired, Mrs. Wheat, and relatives of the new associate justice, including his wife, father, Alexander M. Proctor, and his son, Edward A. Proctor, and an assembly which crowded the courtroom, overflowing into the corridor.

Simple ceremonies marked the occasion. Chief Justice Wheat administered the judicial oath, and in turn it was repeated by the incoming associate justice.

It is probable that in the absence of any assignment for the new associate justice temporarily he will not conduct any court hearings for about a week.

Mr. Justice Proctor recently was appointed to the bench by President Hoover and speedily confirmed by the Senate to complete the membership of the District Supreme Court. He became the thirty-fifth jurist who had mounted the bench since this court was organized in 1863.

Will Irwin Speaks On Propaganda

Widely Known Author and Writer Tells Stories; Praises Press.

Propaganda is "the art of muddlement," according to the talk delivered by Will Irwin, internationally known author and writer, at Central Community Center last night, under the auspices of the Community Institute.

Introduced by Albert W. Atwood, president of the Literary Society and himself a noted magazine writer, Mr. Irwin told stories of how propaganda was used to influence events in the World War and how it has become a profession since that time.

The speaker paid a high tribute to the newspaper as an educator. He said that the modern citizen, however little he realizes it, owes much of his present-day up-to-the-minute knowledge of world events to the newspaper. Mr. Irwin described the change in the press from the time when the editorial columns were the sole section of the paper used to educate the public, to the present when the public gets its knowledge of events first hand from the front pages which give the news.

California Hindu Student Held Slain In Political Plot

Beheaded Indian Killed Because of Activity in Hunting Perpetrators of 13 Murders of Fellow Countrymen, Police Say; Four Sought.

Rio Vista, Calif., March 9 (A.P.).—Sant Ram Pande, 32, Hindu student of the University of California, whose headless body was found last week in the Sacramento River near here, was killed, authorities believed today, because he undertook solution of thirteen Hindu murders out of gratitude to a wealthy patron.

A wealthy Hindu merchant, of Marysville, Calif., had sent Pande to the university and paid his expenses.

The name of the merchant was withheld by the authorities, who feared he might be in danger if his name were known.

Thirteen murders were committed in northern California since 1927 and were due, authorities said, to political and economic causes. It was known India's political problems figured in the slayings.

Meanwhile police and sheriff's officers headed by Clarence S. Morrill, chief of the State Bureau of Criminal Identification in Sacramento, sought four Hindus in connection with the Pande murder. Their names were not made public pending arrest.

While Pande's slaying was being investigated, it was considered probable the State would undertake solution of the other thirteen deaths in an effort to determine whether they were the outgrowth of some widespread Oriental political plot.

Pande lived at the International House at the university in Berkeley. His identity was established by finger prints in Sacramento and his continued absence from the International House.

Morrill said Pande was known to have spoken in favor of the Gandhi movement in India, but police said they believed the cause of his death was his investigation of the other murders.

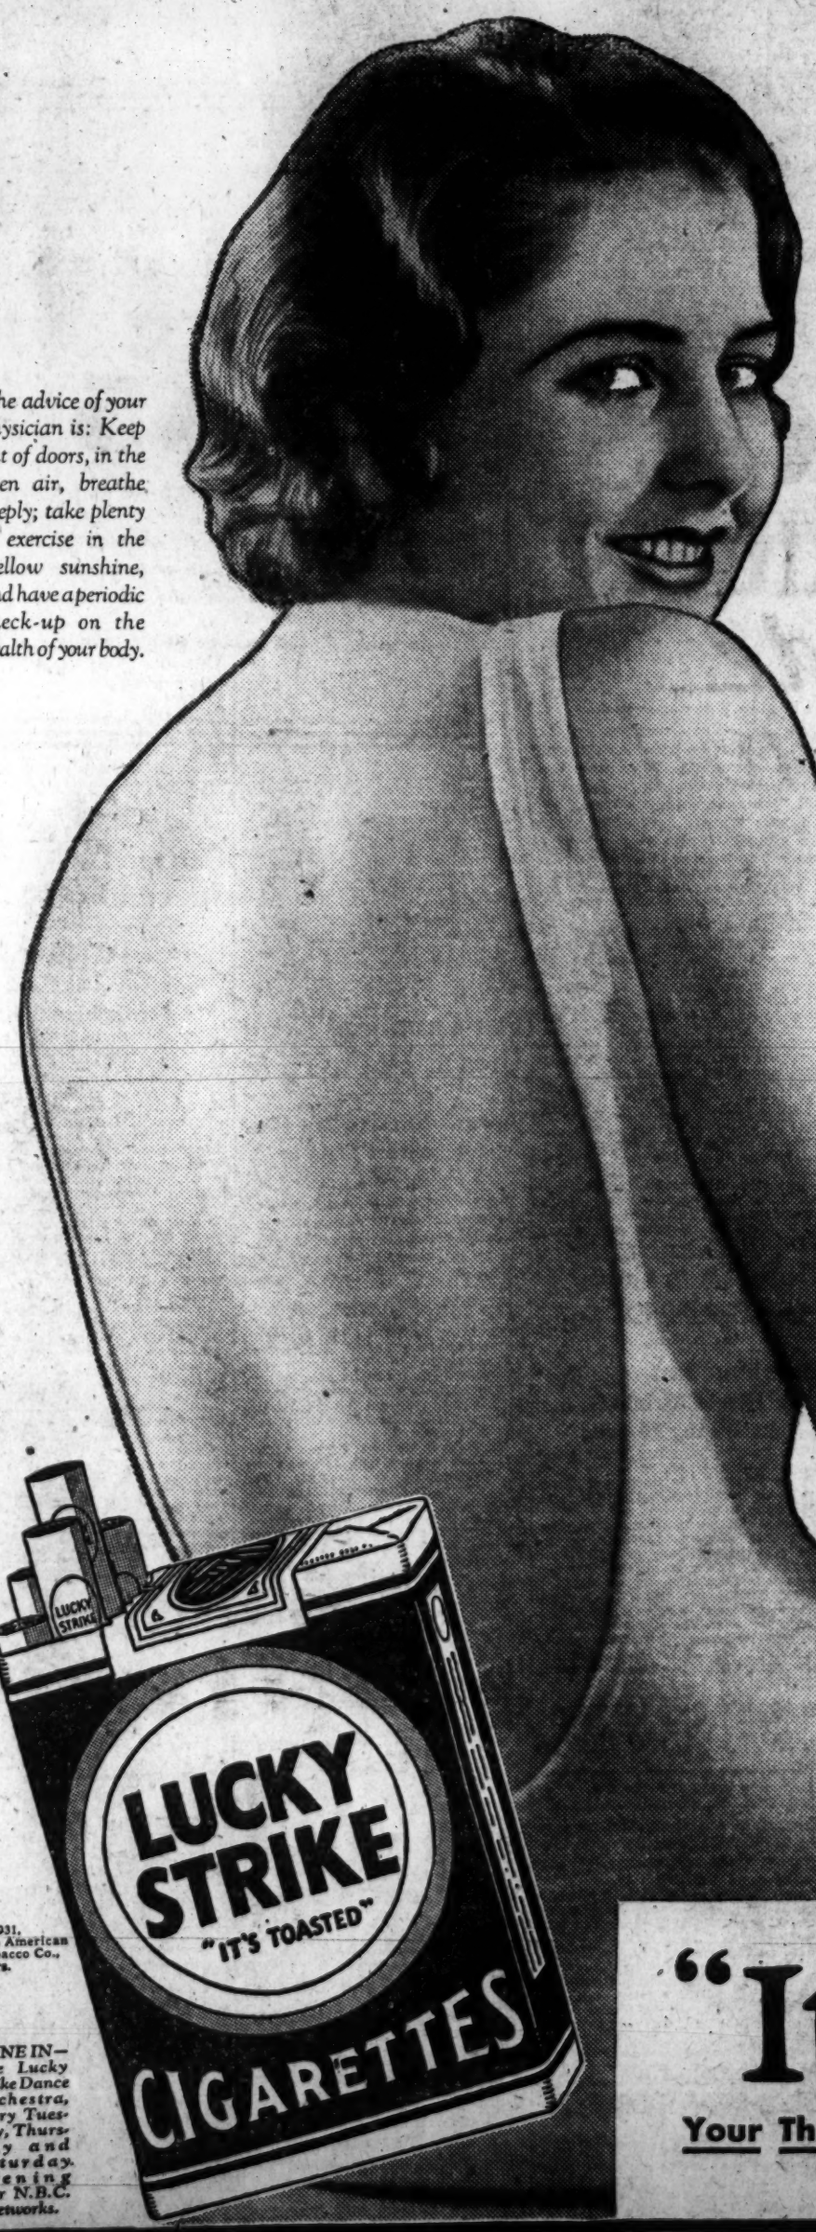
SUNSHINE MELLOWS

Heat Purifies

The advice of your physician is: Keep out of doors, in the open air, breathe deeply; take plenty of exercise in the mellow sunshine, and have a periodic check-up on the health of your body.



LUCKIES are always kind to your throat

Everyone knows that sunshine mellows — that's why the "TOASTING" process includes the use of the Ultra Violet Rays. LUCKY STRIKE — made of the finest tobaccos — the Cream of the Crop — THEN — "IT'S TOASTED" — an extra, secret heating process. Harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos are expelled by "TOASTING." These irritants are sold to others. They are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE. No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat.

A hearing on the request of the Capital Traction Co. for permission to eliminate its tracks on F and G streets northwest, west of Seventeenth street, and to improve its service to Takoma Park was set yesterday afternoon for 10 a. m. on March 25 by the Public Utilities Commission.

The street car line proposes to substitute bus service on the F and G street circuit, with an extension into the Northeast section.

Four in Car Are Killed As Machine Hits Tree

West Haven, Conn., March 9 (A.P.).—Two men who were being given a lift were among four men who were killed when an automobile crashed into a tree on a curve here early today. Three others were injured, two of them so seriously that hospital authorities did not expect them to live.

The dead are Joseph McGrail and Gerald Daly, of New Haven, and E. N. Gormley and Abram S. Foss, of New London.

Actions Against Miners' Officials Dismissed

Rocket Sled Displays Quick Acceleration

Syracuse, N. Y., March 9 (A.P.).—Harry Bull, student inventor, after being balked by ignition troubles and high winds in previous attempted trials, demonstrated the rapid acceleration of his rocket sled on Oneida Lake today, covering 55 feet in two-fifths of a second.

Slush on the ice threatened to postpone the demonstration, but a short distance was scraped to permit the trial.

Ruth Nichols using Amoco Products sets new altitude record for women!

TAKING off from Jersey City Airport on March 6, Miss Ruth Nichols soared to a higher altitude than any woman flier ever reached before.

Miss Nichols' four altimeters recorded a height of 30,054 feet, 2,636 feet above the present woman's record. The instruments are now at the Bureau of Standards in Washington for checking and official confirmation of this record is expected in a few days.

Miss Nichols used Amoco Products exclusively—Amoco-Gas (Aviation Grade) and Amoco Motor Oils and Greases—just as she did in her record-breaking transcontinental flights.

AS TO RUSSIA.

Secretary Stimson's announcement that the State Department intends to make a special study of Russia arouses keen public interest. Department officials hasten to deny that any change of policy is contemplated. Why, then, is a special investigation to be made? If the State Department is beginning to weaken on this issue and is taking this method of sounding out public opinion, it may be certain that the people will be heard from.

Ever since the Communists seized control of the government in Russia the United States has refused to recognize their dictatorship. There is not a shred of honor in their dealing with the Russian people or foreign nations. The very purpose of the regime, which is to overthrow all governments and establish world communism, makes its recognition by the United States unthinkable. Both Republican and Democratic administrations as well as the rank and file of the people have stood solidly against any relations with the red regime. Sentiment against recognition is stronger than ever.

Mr. Colby, Secretary of State in the Wilson administration, in refusing to recognize the Soviet in 1920, said:

> That the present rulers of Russia do not rule by the will or the consent of any considerable proportion of the Russian people is an incontestable fact. * * * It is not possible for the United States to recognize the present rulers of Russia as a government with which the relations common to friendly governments can be maintained. The existing regime in Russia is based upon the negation of every principle of honor and good faith, and every usage and convention underlying the whole structure of international law. * * * We can not recognize, hold official relations with, or give friendly reception to the agents of a government which is determined and bound to conspire against our institutions, whose diplomats will be the agitators of dangerous revolt, whose spokesmen say that they sign agreements with no intention of keeping them.

Since that time Republican administrations have followed the same policy. Secretary Hughes declared:

> Not only would it be a mistaken policy to give encouragement to repudiation and confiscation, but it is also important to remember that there should be no encouragement to those efforts of the Soviet authorities to visit upon other peoples the disasters that have overwhelmed the Russian people.

To the insidious request that the United States recognize the red dictatorship for the sake of extending American trade President Coolidge answered:

> I do not propose to barter away for the privilege of trade any of the cherished rights of humanity. I do not propose to make merchandise of any American principles. These rights and principles must go wherever the sanctions of our Government go.

Such was the unpartisan American stand against Soviet communism when it was a menace in theory only. Today the reds are not only carrying their revolutionary conspiracies throughout the world, but they have launched a dumping program with the intent of ruining other nations. They have declared economic war on the United States and all other nations and are forcing the Russian people to carry out their diabolical purpose.

The nations that are confronted with the menace of economic distress resulting from the competition of slave labor can not afford to deal in sophistry. Instead of recognition of the Soviet government the people will sooner or later demand the exclusion of all slave-made goods from American ports. The only investigation of Russian affairs that would be relevant to the present situation would be one to determine how best to bring to an end America's contributions to the Soviet's economic war machine.

Diplomatic recognition of Russia would seal the political death warrant of any administration in Washington.

REASONS FOR THE VETO.

President Hoover gives unanswerable reasons for his veto of the Wagner bill to set up State employment agencies with the aid of Federal subsidies.

Senator Wagner's bill would have abolished the present employment system which is finding jobs for men and women at the rate of 1,300,000 annually, in addition to placing several hundred thousand agricultural workers. The system that he proposed to set up could not have become effective for many months, since it required action by the State Legislatures, many of which are not in session. Under any circumstances it would have been several years before all of the States could have received benefits.

Congress passed the bill under the apprehension that it was an emergency measure. Under the scrutiny of President Hoover it was revealed as an attempt to meet an emergency by setting up a permanent though undigested policy of subsidizing State employment agencies. The unemployed would reap nothing but grief from the substitution of an untried scheme, which could not become effective for at least several months, for the present Federal employment service.

The suggestion that President Hoover vetoed the bill because he did not wish credit for it to go to a Democrat is absurd. The President signed Senator Wagner's bill for long-range planning of public works, and he would have signed this one if overwhelming practical objections had not forbidden it.

Mr. Hoover has directed Secretary of Labor Doak to cooperate with all interested organizations to draft a new measure for an interstate employment service. It will be presented at the next session of Congress. One of the most serious objections to the Wagner bill was its failure to establish a national employment service. It would have created 48 separate agencies to be maintained by dividing the expenses between the Government and the States. The Department of Labor complains that coordination would have been lacking and that employment service would have been rendered according to population instead of need.

The administration is in favor of a national unified employment service. It is well that the Government has refused to adopt a permanent policy until such a system can be worked out on a practical basis.

COUNTING THE PROGRESSIVES.

Just who are the progressives who are coming to town this week? A glance through the Congressional Directory biographies, which are "based on information furnished by or authorized by the respective senators and representatives," shows not one member listed simply as a Progressive, and only one in whose self-styled political affiliation the label of Progressive even comes first.

Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, calls himself a Progressive-Republican. Senator La-Follette identifies himself as "Republican (Progressive)." Senator Norbeck, of South Dakota, calls himself a "Roosevelt-Republican." Senator Shipstead and Representative Kvale list themselves as belonging to the "Farm-Labor party." Senator Norris, according to the record, is a "Republican," without hyphens before or after. Senator Borah also calls himself a Republican.

So it appears that in the entire membership of Congress there is not one man who allows himself to be called an out-and-out Progressive without strings tied to the title. The five hyphenates make up four parties, one with two members and three with one member each. The combined total of five constitutes a little less than 1 per cent of the 531 members of Congress. Representation at the round tables beginning tomorrow will show a better proportionate representation from Congress. There are to be five round tables, which provides one fore-or-aft congresman for each table.

If the Progressives count upon the attendance of Senator Norris (Republican-Alsmith) at the round tables the total roll call from the Hill jumps to 1.11 per cent. Doubtless there will be other Progressives at the round tables who are not under the necessity of disclosing their political complexions in Government print.

One question that might be pondered at the tables tomorrow and next day is, Why, since elections have been held so recently, is there not a larger representation in Congress to put through the Progressive program? In view of the years they have been pounding away at their hobbies, the "Progressive" delegation should be showing a 2 per cent congressional content. Anything less than 3½ per cent is regarded as near-beer, and not the real thing.

THE PUBLIC LAND REPORT.

After more than a year of study the committee on conservation and administration of the public domain has laid its recommendations before President Hoover. In many respects the report is disappointing. It is clearly a compromise between the attitude of the public land States on one hand and Congress on the other, following closely the suggestions of President Hoover before the study was made. Instead of striking out boldly for either State or Federal administration of the public domain, the committee suggests a division of authority under circumstances that may mean continued neglect of a valuable national heritage.

The principal aim of the committee was to formulate a policy "to insure that all of the unappropriated domain should be administered by some competent authority to avoid waste." At present nearly 180,000,000 acres of land belonging to the Government is being ruined by overgrazing and consequent erosion and floods. None of this land is subject to supervision of any kind. The vital question is not whether the States or the Government shall supervise the use of this land, but that immediate steps for its conservation be taken.

To accomplish this purpose the committee recommends that surface rights in the public domain be turned over to the States, if they desire to take the responsibility of conserving it. Under no circumstances, however, would the national forests, game refuges, the national parks and monuments, oil or mineral lands or reservoir sites valuable for reclamation be granted to the States. In this respect the committee follows the policy of Congress, which is to retain Federal control over everything that is of value in the public domain. The vast stretches of shifting desert sands, sagebrush mesas and broken mountain ranges, fit for nothing but grazing, would be presented to States willing to accept the gift.

For most, if not all of the public land States, administration of these lands would be a liability. Grazing fees would not pay the costs of supervision. State treasuries have no funds on which they could draw for rejuvenation of lands that have been ruined under Federal ownership.

Because of this condition the committee recommends that the Government undertake to conserve the public domain in those States which do not care to accept the proposed offer. The effect of such an arrangement would probably be only to delay conservation by the Government. If surface rights are to be offered to the States an extensive survey to determine what sections the Government wishes to retain would be necessary. Then State Legislatures would have to decide whether or not the residue were worth having. That a majority of the Legislatures would spurn such an offer seems unquestionable. Then, after years of delay, Congress could begin to consider a Federal conservation program, and another committee would likely be appointed to determine the necessity for conservation.

If any of the States should find it advantageous to accept surface rights alone, a duplication of authority over the land would result. The land itself would pass under control of the States, but the Government would have the right to lease tracts for exploitation of minerals, even though those tracts might have been sold to other individuals by the State. Known mineral deposits would belong to the Government and unknown deposits to the States. Hopeless confusion could be expected from such an arrangement.

The committee's findings emphasize the inadvisability of relinquishing the public domain to the States. It indicates that there is only one practical way of saving these national lands from ruin, and that is by a Federal conservation program.

FINGER PRINTS

From the London Times.

The death of Sir Edward Henry, Bt., at the age of 80, which we announce with regret today, closes a long and distinguished career of public service, the earlier part of which was spent in India, and the latter, from 1903 to 1918, as commisioner of metropolitan police. His term at Scotland Yard will always be associated with the perfecting of the finger print system of identifying criminals, which he learned in India.

In 1891 he was appointed to the office that proved the turning point of his career, that of inspector general of police of Bengal.

For centuries finger prints had been regarded in the East as incontrovertible signatures to documents of value. Sir William Herschel and Francis Galton had made a prolonged study of the subject, and in 1892 the latter published his book, which attracted wide attention. The main difficulty arose over the classification, and this was the weak point in Galton's ingenious system. In 1893 a departmental committee was appointed, with Sir Edward Troup as chairman, to examine the whole question of the identification of criminals, and to report whether the anthropometric system, with which the name of Bertillon was associated in France, or a finger-mark system, could be adopted for the detection of crime. In 1894 this committee recommended a combination of Bertillon's system and Galton's finger prints, but the results were indifferent and at times inaccurate, and in London the police used it reluctantly, preferring the old method of personal identification, in which many officers had acquired remarkable facility.

Meantime Henry had been giving close attention to the matter in India, and presently he evolved a system of classification so simple and so complete that in a few years it found world-wide acceptance. The Indian government, satisfied by years of trial, officially adopted his method in 1897, and in 1899 Henry published its results in his book on finger prints. In that year another committee on the question was appointed. Henry gave evidence before it, and it was decided to adopt his system in this country. The results were quickly apparent, for the number of identifications which, under the anthropometric system, had numbered 503 in 1901, quickly mounted up until at the end of 1902 they were 1,722 and in 1912 10,677. Not the least advantage, after that of practically absolute certainty—Galton had estimated the risk of error to be as 1: 64,000,000,000—was the rapidity with which a set of finger prints when received could be classified and traced. The police congratulated themselves, for instance, that the rogues arrested at the Ascot race meeting were annually identified by this means and their criminal records made available for production in court at 10 o'clock the next morning.

The first case which struck the popular imagination, and perhaps insured early confidence in the new system, was that known as the Blackheath murder. A small shopkeeper had been murdered and robbed, no clew, to all appearance, being left to support a case against the suspected man. Search revealed, however, a single finger impression on the empty cash box. This provided the necessary link, and conviction followed. Another striking case was that of an attempted burglary in 1909. The culprit, when disturbed, escaped over a high spiked stable gate, but as he did so a ring on his finger caught on one of the spikes, the finger being torn off as his heavy body dropped, and left on the spike, held by the ring. The impression of the finger was taken, and by a process of deduction a classification was arrived at which led the seeker direct to the record of a well-known criminal, whose print it proved to be. As a result he was found at home shortly afterward nursing the injured hand.

POST HASTE.

It is asserted that Mr. Raskob has acquired proprietary rights in the Democratic party. From his determined wet stand it is evident that he's also after the riparian rights.

If this week passes without a change of government in Peru it is going to be news.

The opinion of a man convinced against his will is conviction compared to the attitude of one who doesn't even listen to the opposition arguments.—Nothing personal, Senator Wagner.

Closely matched parties in Congress give the 1 per cent Progressive there a great advantage. But a little power, like something else, is a dangerous thing.

Are you taking such care of yourself mentally that you could be a justice of the Supreme Court at 90?

Today's prize dilemma: Uncle Sam's what-to-do with all that wheat he can't sell or even give away because Ole Man Supply and Demand is a watchin' all the time.

Mr. Shouse, of the "Eggseck," is a real friend of "Andy" Raskob—he's going to help find the missing money.

The Soviet premier charges that Ham Fish is the leading spirit in the movement for armed intervention in Russia. An absentee sense of humor explains a lot of bolsheviking.

Sunday's government set up in Peru is styled "quasipermanent." If another succeeds it this week, it will be "semiquasi," and a third would establish the "tritransitory" type.

Political leaders say that rum must be handled with gloves. Of course, if spilled, it does injure the skin.

Gandhi's salt victory must have "put him a little wide," as our Spanish friends would say. He now talks of bringing about harmony and unity between the Hindus and the Moslems.

Assistant Chairman Shouse says that in his speeches he endeavors to deal with pertinent political matters. Well, Charlie Michelson writes good speeches.

Senator Borah "tentatively" agreed to attend the Progressive meeting today. The senator is like that about everything except the recognition of Russia.

Chairman Raskob's home-run "suggestion" is like the boss intimating to the office boy that he would appreciate the favor if he would kindly bring his hat and coat. P. H.

NESTORS OF INDUSTRY.

It is a big mistake, according to the Philadelphia Inquirer, to say that a man's usefulness has ended when he approaches the half-century mark. It all depends upon the character of the work a person is called upon to perform. If it be manual labor, everything depends upon physical strength; if it be mental labor, then there is positively no age limit. Thousands of the best executives in the country have gone beyond the Scriptural three-score years and ten and are as good, if not better, than at any previous time in their lives.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

BRIEF PRAYER.

Lord, when the need of me appears
Grant that I shall not be
So blind of eyes, so deaf of ears
I shall not hear nor see.

Grant me to do what things I can
From dawn to set of sun;
To do my utmost, rather than
Leave many tasks undone.

Lord, grant me this: the will to do
All that is in my power,
To live and give as if I knew
This were my final hour.

Where There Is Bait to Dull the Wits, There Is a Trap for the Witless.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

SOME years ago a giant grizzly bear lived in the foothills of the Rocky Mountains and made himself a nuisance to cattlemen of the neighboring plains.

He had developed a taste for beef liver, and there was seldom a moonless night when he failed to gratify it.

His technique never varied. He would creep upon a sleeping steer, kill it with one blow of a mighty paw, remove and devour the liver and disappear in the protecting hills. Sometimes he killed four or five steers in a night.

The outraged cattlemen, unable to trap or corner him, at last appealed to the Government.

The Government responded by lending the cattlemen a shrewd and ancient hunter who knew bears and their weaknesses.

He wasted no time in baiting ordinary traps. Instead he dug a pit at the bottom of a long ravine and covered it lightly with sticks and leaves.

Then he walked far up the ravine into a region the bear had frequented and then retraced his steps, pausing at intervals to drop a "seasonal scent," until he came again to the pit, and there he made the scent overpowering.

Next day the outlaw grizzly was in the pit. Far back in the hills he had caught the treacherous odor. Following it down the ravine, moving faster and faster, he had at last lost all sense of caution and so went headlong to his doom.

The bait had robbed him of his wits.

When you read that some individual apparently sane has been swindled by professional rogues, you need not waste any sympathy.

If the swindled one lost fifty thousand, you may be sure that he dropped it while reaching to get an easy two hundred thousand.

Today's paper tells of a retired merchant, a sober and pious man, who was swindled of five thousand dollars. He had seen a newfound friend win forty thousand by following the advice of a kindly stranger who knew in advance which horse would win.

The scent of that forty thousand stole away his brains. Greed made him witless.

Now the business of life is living. That's all you can get out of it, and you can take nothing with you when you leave.

If the business of life is living, those who live most abundantly are the sanest of men.

And those who permit anything to interfere with the business of living are in some measure mad.

Greed interferes with living. It makes getting the chief business of life. It tricks men.

Men blinded by greed, sacrificing everything else to get money, think themselves shrewd bargainers. The retired merchant thought himself a clever schemer, also. And doubtless the bear, charging down the ravine, thought well of himself.

But the pit catches only the witless. Sane men know that bait indicates a trap.

The "short" session now come to a close, which is short only by comparison, has been even less creditable to the two houses. Most of the time alloted to it has been wasted or worse than wasted in bickering (in the Senate) in trying to "put the President in a hole." A drought relief measure, the soldiers' bonus legislation and the passage of the regular supply bills have been the achievements of account; and about the only satisfaction the country can get from the record is a knowledge that the supply bills did pass and that the necessity for a special session of the incoming Congress has been avoided.

Progressives Would Dupe Democrats.

New York Times.

The present progressives have merely wished to use the Democrats for their own purposes. All that the Democrats get in return is the alienation of conservative members of their own party. For Democratic aid to the Congress progressives, what do the Democrats receive as consideration in presidential elections? Not a thing. Nonpartisan Mr. Norris may personally refuse to stomach Mr. Hoover. Mr. Blaine and Mr. La Follette may beam on the Democratic candidate for President. What good does it do to the Democrats? These statesmen are all Republicans. Their States vote for the Republican presidential ticket.

This week's conference will be another rehearsal by pretty much the same old company. These performances please the performers. It is not clear that they do the straiter Republicans any harm. The Democrats, who have just been putting on so lively a show of their own, will be the last to grudge the insurgent brethren the pleasure of their virtually perpetual stage. But the Democrats have no wish to figure as "supes" in that declamatory drama.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Destruction of Forests May Be Cause of Drought—Experience of Porto Rico.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Having in mind the long-continued and distressful dry spell, the effects of which are still afflicting the country, an article by Theodore Roosevelt, Porto Rican Governor, in the March number of American Forests, entitled "New Forests for Porto Rico," has interested me very much.

Gov. Roosevelt writes in reference to Senator Bingham's congressional joint resolution authorizing the purchase of 50,000 acres of land to be added to the Luquillo National Forest, which, by the way, is our only tropical national forest. He says:

"Due to the very dense population of Porto Rico, about 450 people to the square mile—there has been, particularly during the last 30 years, a rapid deforestation of the islands. The natural result has been suffering and real hardships. The island is having increasing difficulty with its water supply; its streams, especially on the south coast, tend now to be either in freshet or dry."

I do not think it is at all farfetched to say that deforestation is responsible for drought conditions which have prevailed during the past ten months and more in the United States itself.

Students of forestry have no doubts about the bad results of deforestation, but it is important that the general public should realize what is the sure result of the unregulated chopping down of trees. As Richard D. H. Boerker, in his "Our National Forests," says: "Springs dry up, and a luxuriant, well-watered country becomes a veritable desert. In short, the disappearance of the forests means the disappearance of everything in civilization that is worth while."

Fortunately, our National Forest Service, though hardly more than a generation in practical operation, has already demonstrated that, without limiting the commercial timber supply, the danger of deforestation may be offset by scientific forest culture with proper encouragement. And it is well to consider that, while we are specially interested in the cultivation of trees for industrial uses, the general welfare of posterity depends upon the regulated development of forest growth.

The importance of forest conservation should be taught in every institution of learning in addition to the comprehensive courses provided by colleges of agriculture.

Maryland Democrat Praises Chairman Raskob and Denounces Dry South.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Why should you worry, Mr. Editor, about Chairman Raskob, of the Democratic party? Mr. Raskob is a real leader and a go-getter as well, and the Democratic party (I mean real Democrats, not of that Southern type), is proud of, and fortunate to have, at least, a real leader who can lead us out of the old hypocritical Southern rule, which has done more to wreck the party than any other force. Its defeat at the polls so often was because of the weak and unintelligent leadership of the Southern States.

The records indicate there is more unlawful moonshine in the dry South than in the wet States where there are no liquor laws. The Democratic party would be better off if it divorced itself from the so-called Southern States.

The so-called Democrats, formerly Hoovercrats, criticise Mr. Raskob for owning the party, while they are too tight to loosen up a dollar toward its upkeep. There are enough real Democrats to pay off the debt and put enough away to carry us through 1932 clear of debt if each would contribute only 50 cents. The knocker is usually the one who criticises but never helps to remedy, or likes to ride without paying his fare.

The Democratic party under the leadership of Mr. Raskob and Alfred E. Smith on a wet platform and a wet candidate will sweep the country, and rid us of fanaticism, hypocrisy, and the "noble experiment."

Texas Veteran Says Bonus Will Help Situation and Not Burden Government.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In your articles on the so-called bonus, I do not think your arguments are very convincing. After all, it is only a part payment of a just debt, charging the veterans much more interest than the Government must pay if it has to borrow to complete payments—a simple change of indebtedness. In the long run the transaction will be favorable to Uncle Sam.

Many veterans have not yet obtained their certificates, and it will be more than two years before they can make application; many others will delay their applications; some may not make application; others will let their interest (compound) run; so the burden to the Government will be distributed.

The figures given of those in actual distress may be correct, but many more than that need the money for debt payment, &c.; many who hide their needs from the world.

Besides this, even here in Houston, a large sum will go into general circulation, and so it will be all over the country; and I do not see how this can do anything but to improve present conditions.

ONE OF THE BOYS.

Nikola Perazic Transferred to Montreal Post

Capital to Lose Another Popular Bachelor in Diplomatic Corps.

THE news of the transfer of the Attache of the Yugoslav Legation, Mr. Nikola Perazic, to a new post in Montreal, calls to attention the disquieting fact that Washington is to lose one of the most popular of its group of bachelor diplomats. Mr. Perazic is due to leave town in about three weeks for Montreal.

Young and extremely goodlooking, Mr. Perazic has been a great favorite since his arrival in Washington a year or more ago. He is leaving town apparently, heart-whole and fancy-free with possibly the exception of the twinge that must come to anybody who has enjoyed living in a place for a length of time, and leaving behind old friends, even, though he will find new ones ready to welcome him. Mr. Perazic is said to prefer old-fashioned girls—or ultra-new-fashioned—with long hair and long skirts, and so has been the despair of many fascinating flappers.

Dr. Ivan Frangesh, vice consul in New York, will come to Washington shortly to succeed Mr. Perazic as Secretary of Legation.

Apropos of departures, the Capital is to lose several other members of the Diplomatic Corps during the next few weeks. The retiring Naval Attache of the Spanish Embassy and Senora de Iglesias are already in New York preparatory to sailing for Spain, where the former is slated for sea duty. The newly appointed Naval Attache, Commander Frederico Monreal, has arrived in Washington to assume his new duties which he probably finds very different from those on board Spanish naval vessels and in naval stations.

Another bachelor who leaves town next week is the Attache of the Swedish Legation, Mr. R. R. Bagge, who goes to the legation in Madrid after a short visit in Paris en route. The Spanish Ambassador and Senora de Padilla will entertain at luncheon today for Mr. Bagge, and the conversation will probably be of the pros and cons of the Spanish capital. Mr. Bagge will be succeeded by Mr. von Hartmansdorff, who will arrive early next month from his present post in Paris. Mr. von Hartmansdorff is also a bachelor and so will easily fit into the niche which Mr. Bagge has made here.

Margaret H. Palmer Wed To Frank G. Gillies.

The wedding of Miss Margaret Howard Palmer, of West Point, Va., and Washington, daughter of Mrs. L. A. Palmer, of 1405 Girard street, and Mr. Frank G. Gillies, of Detroit, Mich., took place yesterday at noon at the home of the bride's mother. The Rev. Thomas O. Jones officiated in the presence of a small group of relatives and friends.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. D. O. Throgmorton, wore a traveling costume of dark blue flat crepe with a hat to match, and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The only attendant was Miss Nancy Lee Throgmorton, who wore a pink frock trimmed with rosebuds, and carried an old-fashioned bouquet.

Following the ceremony there was a small reception, after which Mr. and Mrs. Gillies left for a wedding trip. They will be at home after April 1 at Phoenix, Ariz.

Mrs. Gillies is the former president of Chapter F, P. E. O.

Mrs. Henry H. Barroll, wife of the late Commander Barroll, U. S. N., arrived recently from Florida, and is staying at the Grafton. She will spend several weeks in Washington before returning to her home in Connecticut.

While he will not stay at the German Embassy, as the guest of the Ambassador and Frau von Prittwitz, he will doubtless be feted there during his Washington sojourn.

Dr. Eckener will stay at one of the hotels, as he has done during his previous visits to the Capital. After arriving recently in New York from Europe, he went directly to Akron, Ohio, to confer with officials of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Co., the sole purpose of his visit to this country.

Dr. Eckener plans to take the Graf Zeppelin on a brief cruise to the Arctic carrying a number of German scientists who will chart many islands in the polar seas, some of them unexplored. If sufficient funds are ready, he hopes to start this summer and will be gone only five days, traveling from Germany over Leningrad and northern Russia.

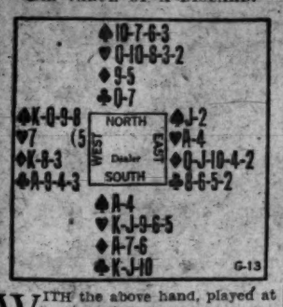
WORK ON BRIDGE

THE VALUE OF A DISCARD.



WITH the above hand, played at Auction Bridge, South would bid one Heart. West one Spade, North two Hearts, and, whether or not East bid, South would obtain a Heart contract.

At Contract Bridge South would bid one Heart, West one Spade, North two Hearts, and after East's pass South probably would bid four Hearts as his hand contains the strength (5½ tricks) to justify that declaration after a partner's raise. As a matter of fact, it has almost—if not all of the 6 tricks which would justify an original two-bid.

In the play West opened with the King of Spades, South won the Ace and led a trump. East's Ace won, and he led the Jack of Spades, which held the trick. East then led the Queen of Diamonds; South took with the Ace and pulled East's remaining trump. South then led a Club, which West took and cashed a Diamond, making one trick in each suit and saving game.

Could the game have been won?

The Correct Play.

After winning the first trick, Declarer should have seen that if South led a trump immediately the result would be as above; but, by leading a Club toward dummy's Queen, the adverse Ace would be forced out, and of course the adversaries would win a Spade and the Ace of Hearts. But when South won with the Ace of Diamonds, he would have had two good Clubs if West won, the first Club trick, one if he held up until the second round; in either event dummy could discard a losing Diamond on the third round of Clubs.

Playing in that way the Declarer would not lose a Diamond trick and game would be made.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

She Wants to Live.

WE will never cease to wonder why parents endeavor to appear as saints to their children. What can be gained by assuring adolescent youth that "such things" were unheard of in our day. Unheard of? Unheralded perhaps, but unheard of never! Our own High School days were so hectic that we blush for shame at the temerity of our contemporaries who assure their wide-eyed off-spring that "such things" were "unheard of." Do their children believe them? Do they believe that Dad's kiss was the first mother ever knew? And that of course they were on the way to the altar before she was kissed at all? If the system worked, we would have no quarrel with it, for we are first, last and always for expediency where youth is concerned. But it does not work and never will. At best the younger generation decide that Mother must have lacked "It" and Dad must have been short on initiative. And they go their own way, do their own thinking and regard as two innocents untouched by a hard world the two who gave them life.

Do parents really wish their children to consider them lay figures who happily escaped all the turmoil that adolescent experience creates? Do they prefer this pseudo sainthood to the respect and confidence of the very intelligent young adults with whom they have to deal? When a girl is afraid of shocking Mother, something is all wrong.

The letter which follows is the answer to the question:

Dear Frances McDonald—I am only 17 but have been in love three times so I know this is real. But he is just no good and I can not change him. But do not tell me to give him up for I simply can not. I see him every night and even then I can not wait for the day to pass till I see him. I can not study for I can think of nothing but him.

My folks do not suspect anything as they are not the modern kind. They never really lived and so could not understand. Mother has told me again and again that she never kissed any one but Dad—so you see how hopeless it is. She does not know that I have ever kissed a boy. So how can I tell her that I know this is real love and that I must have this fellow. He is very mean to me. And if I do the least thing contrary to his wish he will not show up at our meeting place and let me come every night sometimes for a week and never meet me. I get a dollar a week spending money and he is always borrowing it from me and never pays back. He comes of a good family but has given them a lot of trouble. They know that I meet him. And one night his mother came and bawled me out and said if I met him again she would tell my mother. But she does not know my mother and would never do it anyway. He says we can be married in New Jersey and he will marry me if I get $50 out of the bank to pay our expenses there. I have $300 in the bank, but everyone in the bank knows me. I can not go in and ask for it. They might ask questions. Besides Mother has the book. It is a savings bank. He says "get the book, brace right in and take the money." How can I? The book is in a locked drawer in Mother's desk. I would feel a thief just taking the book even if it is mine. Besides Mother is a sweet thing and it isn't her fault that she is innocent and does not know what it is all about. She married young and never saw anything. I am as old as she was yet she thinks I have never been kissed. I go nearly crazy trying to think it all out. I have simply got to have this boy and no other will do. When he takes another girl out I almost lose my mind. And he does it all the time. I want to go to Jersey and get married but how can I practically rob Mother's desk to do it? How can I get him without that? Do help a lost soul. I-WANT-TO-LIVE.

There you have the whole story. Saintly parents who would not for the world admit to ever having known a thrill, and their neurotic little daughter snared by a well-born gangster who has no more notion of marrying her in Jersey than he has of being the next president of the United States. Her $50 would buy a few trinkets for some other girl who does not loan him her spending money, and their affair, so far as he is concerned, would be over. It is over now. He has exploited her and experimented with her and now feels that with $50 to remember her by the whole thing might be not so bad.

Mother may be a sweet thing. She may even be as innocent as daughter supposes her to be. But it would be a lot better for them both if Mother came down off the pedestal and talked the language of the day.

The child who wrote that letter is headed for certain disaster and will end in some hospital for nervous diseases—all because Mother was innocent and sweet. Is the sainthood worth that price?

Your Name
WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFARRARI, PH.D.

THE family name "Rowling" is a variation of "Rawlin" which, in turn, is a late spelling of "Raoulin." "Raoulin" is a French diminutive form of the Germanic personal name "Ruodolf." "Ruodolf" (English "Rudolph" means "famous wolf." The spelling 'Raulyn' occurs in an English document of the year 1306.

The family name "Kearney" (also spelled "Carney") has come down to us from two Celtic sources. It is often the modern form of the original Irish "O'Cearnaigh," which means "the descendant of Cearnac." "Cearnac" was an old personal name meaning "victorious." Another common source of this name is the Irish "O'Ceithearnaigh," meaning 'the descendant of the foot-soldier."

The family name "Cherrington" is found with great frequency in the earliest English documents. Its common early spelling is "Cherinton." This name has become confused with "Charrington" and "Carrington." All the above names appear to go back to a common English source, and their original meaning is probably "he who lives at the estate of the Car family." "Car" is a rare Old English personal name of Teutonic origin, and means "care" and "anxiety." There are villages called "Cherrington" in County Warwick and in County Salop. A third village in County Gloucester has the same name, although it is spelled "Cherington." The Hundred Rolls (1273) mentions a William de Cherinton and a Richard de Cherlinton.

The family name "Pickert" is of German origin. It is a modern shortened form of "Fredigardus," an old personal name which may be translated "peace-power" or "peace-protection."

Jane Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

White pique touches on smart and practical dresses of lightweight woolen and serge. (Courtesy of David, Paris.)

Paris, March 9.

NOW there just is and there just isn't a way to wear the new hats, and one way is chic and the other is silly—and I'm not going to let any Dah-ray fan wear hers in any way except the chic way!

For the hats of today are "bien exaggere," and you can so easily "exaggere" yourself from the sublime to the ridiculous, if you don't watch out. What I especially have in mind is the little hat which is purposely constructed to set on either side of the head or the very back of the head—and the caricatures that so many women make out of themselves by taking hats that we never constructed to be worn this way, and wearing them this way.

That idea of taking a perfectly respectable hat which is cut to set straight on the head with just the tiniest bit of tip here or there for chic, and then perching it either at the side or the back of your head in an exaggerated "Ki-Ki" manner went out of popularity and never was in style, five or six years ago. It never has come back, and it isn't back now!

The very high off-the-forehead movement in hats is not quite as smart now, speaking merely in terms of chic, as the side to side movement. This almost completely covers one side of the head and face, and leaves one whole side of the face and hair exposed. But this kind of a hat must have a tight close-fitting little crown which sticks to the head like molasses, and which is itself cut nearly in half before its carefully planned and unusually flattering brim is placed on it.

So-o-o-o, unless your l at is thus constructed it is not made to be worn far on the side or far on the back of the head, and if you wear it that way it is only ridiculous and unworthy of a good Dah-ray fan!

* * * *

And you look and you oh and you ah! ——'n' then you go right out and buy something like I have illustrated for you today, and wear it, what's more!

That's why every once and in a while I sketch a David sports dress for you, summer type this time, and ever so smart and simple and practical. The one on the right is white pique trimmed—in fact, they both are, but the one on the right is navy blue serge with white buttons to boot while the one on the left is greer wool, with a white pique touch down the front that is very pleasing.

* * * *

And even the tunic dress Dah-ray designed for you this week could be transformed into a smart tea pajama! That's the perfect idea for your Easter dress—send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet which tells you how to make a stunning tunic that is a tunic, make it out of egg-shell satin, and use it with three different skirts, each skirt matched with a collar or jabot or something that adorns the tunic so that the whole is a complete ensemble. And have black velvet pajamas which transfer the tunic into a stunning "robe de interior" for the occasional now and then when you just have to have a tea gown. Meanwhile nothing hangs in your closet, because you will find a hundred occasions a week require a tunic dress, especially one cut with so much art and elegance.

* * * *

Next Sunday Dare will have another of her weekly fashion letters in The Washington Post. Of course, you'll want to read it.

Au revoir.

Film Suit Victory Is Gained by Lloyd

Right to Petition for New Hearing Is Granted in Piracy Litigation.

San Francisco, March 9 (A.P.).—The Harold Lloyd Corporation won a victory in the piracy suit against it involving the motion picture, "The Freshman," in the United States circuit court of appeals here today.

The court granted the corporation and the Pathe Exchange the right to file a petition in Los Angeles for a rehearing on the ground of newly discovered errors.

Mrs. Sadie Witwer, widow of the humorist, H. C. Witwer, won the case in Los Angeles district court on her charge the plot of "The Freshman" was plagiarized from Witwer's story "The Emancipation of Rodney." She obtained an injunction against further distribution of the film, an order for an accounting of profits which reputedly ran well over $1,000,000, and an order for destruction of the picture.

Aviators Seek Endurance Mark.

Etampes, France, March 9 (A.P.).—The aviators Reginensi and Lalouette took off at 3:02 p. m. today in an effort to break the world duration and distance records for planes carrying a useful load of 2,000 kilograms. The duration record is now held by the German Pilot Risticz and the distance record by his compatriot Steindorff.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE.

"PISCES."

IF MARCH 10 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to noon, from 4:30 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 10 a. m. and from 2:30 p. m. to 4 p. m.

Time will prove that March 10 is not your "unlucky" day—no immediate benefit will follow changes made or steps taken, but fruitful seed will be sown. New friendships will be formed, with possible engagements or marriage to follow, for the unattached readers of the fair sex.

Children born on this March 10 will have the ability and the gumption to make something of themselves, no matter what their handicaps may be. They will have self-assurance, convincing ways, and personal charm. They will have high ambitions, considerable personal pride, and splendid ideals.

If born on a March 10, you have a "jolly good fellow" complex, and one of the traits of a curmudgeon. Fortunately, however, your good nature is tempered with discretion, and you have a large fund of common sense. You are not guilty of the cheap follies of "conviviality," but you are always a good sport, and you believe in a "50-50" basis of living. You are very generous and you generosity springs from a warm heart, and is not mere swank, or the desire to be thought mean.

You never sell your self-respect for worthless popularity with boon companions. Your good will and good cheer is unconsciously extended to one and all. Unless you are physically very strong, you will find your energy will be sapped by those who live on outside stimulation. Beware of these robbers of your strength, magnetism and vitality!

You have considerable optimism and are not a worrier. You have the contentment that is not always chasing after rainbows. Little things please you immensely, and you find joy in simple pleasures. You do not seemingly take anything very seriously, but you have courage and perseverance, two factors which make for personality and success. You refuse to accept the "impossible," and you are not surprised by the miracles which lie around the corner. If you marry, you and your mate will know the meaning of "together," in both your play and work, your sorrows and your joys.

Successful people born March 10:

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me how to prevent the cherries and leaves from dropping from my Jerusalem cherry plant. I water it every day and keep it in a warm, sunny room.

MRS. HOWARD T.

It is the warm, dry air in the modern house that is so hard on all plants. The Jerusalem cherry will not tolerate this. Since it does demand sunshine, however, give it a cool, sunny, well-ventilated place in which to live and you will find that it drops few, if any, leaves or fruit. It must be well watered every day and the foliage should be sprayed every other day.

Please tell me whether or not the inclosed leaf is a croton and also whether the plant requires much sun and water. So far it is a beautiful plant which I am anxious to keep in good condition.

MISS HELEN H. E.

Your plant is a croton. Keep it in a warm, sunny well-ventilated place and water it in such large amounts that you are sure of moistening all the soil in the pot. Give it plenty of fresh air and if there comes a warm day open a window near it so that it will have the benefit of some fresh air during the warmest hours of the day, without being in a draft.

Please tell me what to do to make my calla lily bloom. It is three years old, has had plenty of sun in winter and the normal rest prescribed for these plants in summer.

MISS POLLY P. L.

Try giving the plant some liquid manure. Of course you must water the soil before applying the manure. Try an application of a half cupful of a weak solution twice a month.

Please tell me what to do for geraniums that are losing their leaves. These are young plants coming along from slips taken from summer bedding plants. I usually have luck with geraniums. The plants are in the sun, are watched every day, have a fairly rich soil with no extra fertilization and plenty of fresh air and not too warm a place and still the leaves are dropping.

MISS NANCY D. K.

I am sure it is a case of too much water. Try watering them every other day and see if leaves do not cease to fall.

I have a lantana which is growing out of bounds. Will it hurt the plant to cut it back at this time? It has bloomed faithfully all winter. Also, could I take cuttings off the plant while cutting it back?

MRS. ROBERT T. H.

Reduce the size of the plant by removing a few cuttings from some of the most straggling branches. These will begin to bloom in April.

Please tell me how often to water a dish garden with only one plant in it, a Japanese rubber plant.

EMILY L. H.

Water it about every two weeks or at least not oftener than once in ten days.

Please tell me when to plant gladiolus bulbs and how to prepare the soil.

MARJORY Y. T.

May 1 to 15 is the time to plant gladiolus. These bulbs demand a sunny situation and a good sandy loam. They do well in a heavy loam if it is particularly well drained. Well rotted stable manure is the best fertilizer. When possible, this should be spread over the ground in the fall and dug under the following spring. When this is unobtainable, use bone meal or sheep manure. These can be added two weeks before planting. Plant smallest bulbs first and larger ones later. Place them thre or four inches apart each way.

REBUILD YOUR STRENGTH

the new strength that comes with taking S.S.S.

. . . particularly is this IMPORTANT in the spring, after colds, flu and sickness

MANY are weakened by the epidemics of colds and flu in winter and the body therefore has less resistance against further disease attacks.

When your vitality is low—you feel weak—have lost your appetite, the chances are that cold or the flu or some other sickness has destroyed many of your red-blood-cells and your body has not the strength to properly assimilate and use the food you eat.

When your red-blood-cells are reduced to 80% you are not yourself. 60% is dangerous. Your body may be demanding more red-blood-cells. You need these health-building and health-sustaining cells to build and repair tissue and give you strength.

S.S.S. is famed for its ability to increase the red-blood-cells. This is why for over 100 years it has been popular for toning up the system—especially in the spring. And being purely vegetable, S.S.S. has no harmful effects upon the system.

Every spring countless thousands take S.S.S. to build back their red-blood-cells so that they may have that new strength which makes for a keen appetite, firm flesh, a clear skin and greater resistance against infection and disease. You, too, will want to take S.S.S. for this very reason. Select the larger size as it holds double the quantity and represents a price-saving.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

IS A HOT LUNCH WORTH WHILE?

THE attitude of the public and of many dietitians on the subject of warm foods is paradoxical. In certain fields they advocate them; in others, they condemn them. For instance, gallons of ink have been used to condemn warm breads and other gallons to advocate warm lunches. The fact is that very little scientific work has been done on any phase of the subject. The trend of that which has been done is supportive of the theory that within reasonable limits it makes no difference with the digestion whether foods are warm or cold. The heat regulating apparatus is so efficient that when warm food reaches the stomach it is speedily cooled to bodily temperature.

On the other hand, when ice cream gets there enough heat is switched on locally to melt the cream and warm it to body heat in, say, five minutes, probably much less. The old predictions that eating frozen foods would throw one into a speedy decline had no foundation and have been discredited.

There is no scientific basis for the opinion that warm foods are any harder to digest than cold ones. When warm foods are put into the mouth the cooling process begins. By the end of chewing and swallowing digestion is nearly complete. If there remains any task of adjusting temperatures, the heat regulating apparatus takes care of that in a very few minutes. Judy O'Grady and the colonel's lady are alike within a minute or two from the plate.

This applies to hot breads as well as to other foods. One theory is that the gluten of wheat flour is more "gooey" when warm. If it is, there is no proof that it is less digestible by reason of being so. Does that theory keep us from eating warm pastry, warm cereals, thickened soups, only to mention a few? Nor should we forget that all bread, warm and cold, is of the same temperature one or two minutes after it starts on its journey digestionwards.

The palate may call for bread that is cold or warm, but let the decision be on the basis of taste rather than digestion. Often it is far more convenient for the cook to serve cold bread, but again, let the decision be based on the real urge and not on a false one. It is even more convenient to bake once a month or a season, as some of our European relatives do. If we wish to follow their example let us not be diverted by any red herring of health.

The warm school lunch is an example of a fetish in another direction. A warm lunch is just as wholesome for a school child as is a cold one, but not more so. The advantage of serving a warm lunch to school children is that it makes something of a function of the meal. On the other hand, many schools that could afford to serve a cold lunch and many children that could afford a cold lunch can not afford kitchens, warm food and such.

Nothing said in this article applies to eating or drinking scalding-hot foods.

BODY OF DEAD MAN MANGLED BY TRAIN

Constable Reports Blow on Head Received in Fight Caused Death.

The body of a man already dead was mangled beneath the wheels of a Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis train early yesterday morning. The man was later identified as Joseph Forest, colored, 35 years old, of Capitol Heights, after a coroner's jury had reported that he was dead when struck by the train.

Struck on the head during a fight at his home Saturday night, the man had apparently wandered until he collapsed and died on the tracks between Bell's and Randall stations. The train crew said that they saw the man on the tracks, but could not stop the train in time to keep him from being run over.

According to Constable Earle Blackwell, who is investigating the case, Forest had been struck on the head during the fight in Capitol Heights, and had not been seen until found by the trainmen. No arrests have been made in the fight.

The train which struck the body is the first to leave the city in the morning. After running over the man, the crew ran back, but found the body already cold.

Two persons who were in the fight are in Casualty Hospital, one of them in a serious condition. Lucy Bailor, with whom Forest made his home, was badly cut in the riot and received punctures of both lungs. She will probably die. Another man, Percy Cummer, was less badly slashed and was discharged after treatment.

U. S. Aid to Private Charities Opposed

Individual Agencies Should Be Taken by Public Groups, Bane Says.

In an address before the Council of Social Agencies at the Y. W. C. A. yesterday, Frank Bane, commissioner of public welfare of Virginia, and a member of President Hoover's committee on unemployment, declared that public relief organizations should take over the burdens now being borne by private philanthropic agencies.

Calling destitution a Government problem, to be placed in the same category as street paving and other public works, he declared he opposed subsidizing private beneficent agencies with public funds.

Walter S. Ufford, general secretary of the Associated Charities, asserted that without private agencies Washington could not measure up to the responsibilities that have been met here. He said that necessary expenditures here had increased 60 per cent with no immediate prospect of a decrease.

"TRADER HORN." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of the novel by Ethelreda Lewis, adapted to the screen by Dale Van Every and John Thomas Neville, with play by Richard Schayer. Directed by W. S. Van Dyke. The cast: Harry Carey, Edwina Booth, Duncan Renaldo, Mutia Omoolu and Olive Golden. Reviewed Monday night by Don B. Reed.

Long awaited and probably more discussed than any picture in recent years, "Trader Horn," currently exhibited twice daily at the National, is one of the few films thoroughly entitled to the right to play as a road show and at road show prices. It combines a little bit of everything that the motion picture can offer in the way of variety, with a touching story, and that greatest of all box-office appeals—adventure.

"Trader Horn" was two years in the making, what with shooting the piece in Africa, rehearsing other scenes and adding sound in Hollywood, and it caused considerable grief to all concerned before it was finished. But after seeing it, the average patron of the films will come away with the firm conviction that whatever it cost the picture was worth it.

To many of us who used to enjoy the old silent Western thrillers, the film is especially attractive in that it brings back to the screen Harry Carey, who scores considerable of a personal triumph as the Trader himself, enacting the scenes of the aged story-teller's spectacular youth.

Edwina Booth, as the daughter of a missionary, captured in childhood by the savages and trained to be as fierce as their fiercest braves, gives a marvelous performance from the moment she steps out of a native hut until she sails away to civilization in the arms of Duncan Renaldo, Trader Horn's companion on the particular expedition which brings about this story.

The comradeship so necessary for self-preservation in the jungle, the unswerving loyalty of Horn's black gun bearer, the womanlike instincts which the half-savage white girl displays, the coming of love to Horn's young companion and the girl are capably woven into a series of nature scenes which place the finest of travelogues far in the background of motion picture accomplishments.

Every animal known to Africa is displayed before the eye in astounding numbers. Their habits are portrayed within the reach of the camera's eye, even to the magnificent battle between four full-grown lions for a deer which one has slain. Elephants, leopards, giraffes, buffalo, rhinoceroses, hippopotami, alligators and crocodiles pass in parade amid virgin surroundings, the like of which have seldom been presented anywhere.

But despite all the background of African scenery; despite the amazing contortions of the African tribes when the medicine men are concocting black magic; despite the splendid exhibitions of animal life; "Trader Horn" will be remembered as a gripping story of love and adventure.

Too much can not be said of Harry Carey's performance as Horn. He is perfect in the part. So is Edwina Booth. Duncan Renaldo might have been a little more forceful at times and a little less cheerful on occasions when danger threatened, but on the whole does a good piece of work. Horn's gun-bearer, who finally gives his life to save that of his master and played by Mutia Omoolu, is a part built to appeal and the huge mountain of a man does everything with it except steal the show from the principals.

All in all "Trader Horn" lives up to advance notices and goes a considerable distance beyond expectations.

MANY ILLS ARE DUE TO FATIGUE

Common Cold Is Very Easy "To Catch" When "Tired Out"

Fatigue, according to medical authorities, lowers the resistance of the human system. As a result, the system is more susceptible to infections. For example, when fatigued, the body is easily chilled and often a head cold or worse follows.

One of the most effective ways to overcome fatigue is to eat or drink something sweet. A soda fountain beverage, ice cream, a piece of candy and small cakes are appropriate because they are quickly digested and their energy is ready at once to restore vigor.

Thousands of people who work, or spend the day shopping, have learned the value of a mid-afternoon sweet snack to banish fatigue. Children upon coming home from school are also benefited by a light, nutritious sweet food. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

The invocation will be given today by the Right Rev. William F. McDowell, Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and Mgr. Edward L. Buckey, pastor of St. Matthew's Church, will deliver the benediction.

Reports of services rendered in the past year by chest organizations will be presented by the following:

Man Hoards Funds, Dies of Starvation

Had $2,658 in Cash but Tried to Sell Hatchet to Buy Food.

Baltimore, Md., March 9 (A.P.).—Anton Pekarek spent the last 10 years or so of his 73 years "hoarding every penny to take care of me in my old age." Today he starved to death. In a trunk in his rented room $2,110.98 in cash was found, and savings bank books showed deposits of $547.44.

Pekarek was found unconscious and taken to a hospital where doctors said he was suffering from starvation. He was so weak that the foods and medicines given him did no good.

Neighbors said they saw Pekarek yesterday trying to sell a rusty hatchet so he could get something to eat.

Police said they could find no trace of relatives. Should none show up the margin after funeral expenses will go to feed the unemployed.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

UNLESS I viewed the film through unseeing or uncomprehending eyes—and I hope I did—there is an episode in "Body and Soul," current at the Fox, which should have been left on the cutting-room floor. It is not the execrably acted drunken scene in which Charlie Farrell is made to participate that I have in mind, but the one involving the fighting plane, in which, it seems to me, Al Santell, the director, has made him violate both the spirit and the practice of modern warfare.

It is just barely possible, of course, that I have not got my British Flying Corps regulations on straight, but I doubt if any American lad would have comported himself toward a fellow countryman as Mal Andrews was made to do toward his pal, Jim Watson. After Watson has been shot dead at the controls of his machine, a landing is effected and Mal, uninjured, strips a wrist watch from his fallen friend, gives the ship the gun and sends the lifeless body into the air again to fall victim to a double crash and plunge to the earth in flames.

In the subsequent sequences of the story Mal's demeanor is as if nothing out of the ordinary had happened. In fact, he boasts that before his pal came down he accounted for two enemy planes. He should have said, before he came down dead the second time.

This is an ill-judged touch that to me leaves the character of Andrews throughout the remainder of the picture bearing a stigma that is nothing short of ghoulish.

Speaking of the current magic lantern shows, there is something oddly paradoxical about "The Lottery Bride" at the Rialto, and its source. If "Bride 66" had been staged with the expansive picturesqueness of "The Lottery Bride," it would have been a much more notable stage offering. On the other hand, if "The Lottery Bride" had been restricted to a photographic record of "Bride 66," it would have been a more believable picture.

A bit of an insight into why Greta Garbo is one of the motion picture industry's greatest assets is afforded by the comparative runs of "Romance" and "Inspiration" at the Columbia.

The constantly mounting interest in the glamorous Scandinavian—especially since all the false ballyhoo of a counterfeit threat by Marlene Dietrich—and the public expectation of uniformly fine performances on her part, served to attract patronage during the first week of "Inspiration" that exceeded that of the first week of "Romance." Disappointment at a listless performance of what was far from Garbo's best role, however, caused the second week's receipts to fall proportionately below the second of the run of the Sheldon play.

M-G-M should worry! The average remains the same—one of the highest known to American box offices.

By the way, it is reported that Garbo is down for the title role of "Mata Hari." If Mata Hari is the person I think, and not a couple of other fellows, what has become of Jetta Goudal, numerously reputed to be her daughter?

And Syd Chaplin. What has become of him, too? Answer me that.

He didn't even show up to lug the print of Charlie's new one, "City Lights," East from the Coast, as has been his wont every time Charlie has made a new one since a time when the memory of man runneth not to the contrary. And that's a very long time, indeed.

Some one has given Maurice Chevalier the tip-off. On his radio appearances—and that is hardly what they are—I note he is adding chatter in increasing amounts to his songs. Speaking only of the air, the more he talks and the less he sings, the better he will be—begging your pardon, Mr. Heine.

Tomorrow night, Jeanette MacDonald.

If you are in search of a couple of light, breezy books to while away one of these week-ends of enforced quiet, I am in a position to recommend "The Universe Around Us" (not a motion picture), by Sir James Jeans, M. A., D. Sc., LL. D., F. R. S., and "The Mind at Mischief," by William S. Sadler, M. D., F. A. C. S.

The former will reduce your ego to the point where a million million of you can stand on the head of a pin, with space left for a Ben-Hur chariot race around the edge, the latter will convince you that what has ailed you all along is that you're crazy!

Or did you know?

● ● ● Some of the animal shots are unquestionably as authentic as anything can be, and they are

Thrilling

● ● ● A combat in which four or five lions take part is one of the realistic high spots of the picture.

● ● ● Harry Carey is well cast indeed as Trader Horn, and Edwina Booth is beautiful and appealing in the role of the girl.

A Road Show Attraction

● ● ● The cue is to get going, and pronto. There is no lack of action, I can assure you of that.

What the NEW HUMIDOR PACK

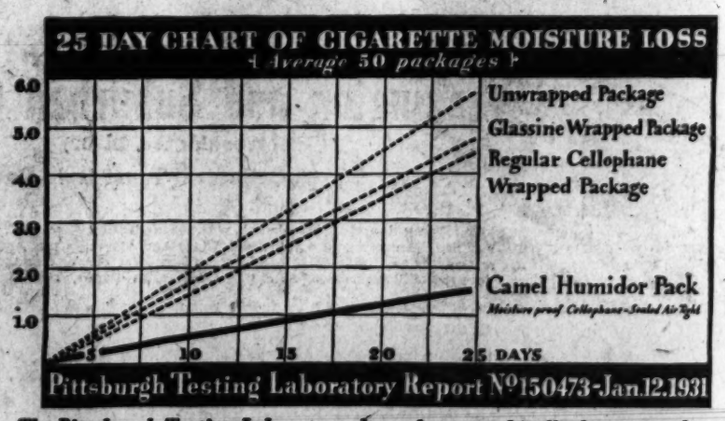
means to Camel Smokers*

COMPARE a package of Camels with any other cigarette and note the difference in the technique of packing.

Note that Camels are completely enclosed in an outer transparent cover of moisture-proof cellophane and sealed air-tight at every point.

We call this outer shell the Humidor Pack. It differs from the ordinary cellophane pack and while it is egg-shell thin, it means a lot in terms of cigarette enjoyment.

It means, for instance, that evaporation is checkmated and that Salt Lake City can now have as good Camels as Winston-Salem.



The Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory chart above graphically shows you that only the Camel Humidor Pack delivers cigarettes to you in prime condition

While Camels are made of a blend of the choicest Turkish and mellowest domestic tobaccos, it is highly important, if you are to get full benefit of this quality, that these cigarettes come to you with their natural moisture content still intact.

The Humidor Pack insures that. It prevents the fine tobaccos of Camels from drying out and losing any of their delightful flavor.

Aside from cheap tobacco, two factors in a cigarette can mar the smoker's pleasure:

Fine particles of peppery dust if left in the tobacco by inefficient cleaning methods sting and irritate delicate throat membrane.

Dry tobacco, robbed of its natural moisture by scorching or by evaporation gives off a hot smoke that burns the throat with every inhalation.

We take every precaution against these factors here at Winston-Salem.

A special vacuum cleaning apparatus removes dust and now the new Humidor Pack prevents dryness.

Check the difference yourself

It is a very simple matter to check the difference between Humidor Packed Camels and other ordinary dry cigarettes.

First of all you can feel the difference as you roll the cigarettes between your fingers. Camels are full-bodied and pliable. A dry cigarette crumbles under pressure and sheds tobacco.

If you will hold a cigarette to each ear and roll them with your fingers you can actually hear the difference.

The real test of course is to smoke them. And here's where the new Humidor Pack proves a real blessing to the smoker.

As you inhale the cool, fragrant smoke from a Camel you get all the mildness and magic of the fine tobaccos of which it is blended.

But when you draw in the hot smoke from a dried cigarette see how flat and brackish it is by comparison and how harsh it is to your throat.

If you are a regular Camel smoker you have already noticed what proper condition of the cigarette means.

But if you haven't tried Camels in the new Humidor Pack you have a new adventure with Lady Nicotine in store.

Switch your affections for just one day, then go back to your old love tomorrow if you can.

MOTOR STOCKS RISE ON BULLISH MARKET

Sales of 2,900,000 Shares Held Light in View of February Turnover.

New York, March 9 (A.P.).—The bulls came out on top in today's stock market, but their progress was at times unsteady.

Most of the shares that usually provide the leadership moved narrowly and occasionally were under pressure. However, the success of professional pool operations in the motors and some specialties induced considerable general covering at the close. Sales approximated 2,900,000 shares, a light turnover if judged by the February standards.

Other financial markets were little changed. Grains ruled about steady and domestic bonds managed to keep firm, although United States Governments softened. The real feature outside the stock exchange was the rise of virtually a cent in silver bullion, which strengthened optimism toward the international outlook.

Chrysler Goes Higher.

With General Motors and Chrysler pushing into new high ground for the year, it was easy to move the other automotives and also the motor accessory shares, most of which closed 1 to 2 points higher. Checker Cab was an outstanding exception, breaking 4 points. Utilities stepped into the background as a group, yet there was heavy buying of United Corporation which, since its acquisition of a large block of Niagara Hudson, is reported to be angling for a larger position in Consolidated Gas of New York.

Bears endeavored to unsettle the list with another attack on the oils. Standard of New Jersey dropped 2 points to a new low, but cut its decline in half under late covering. Houston recovered three-fourths of a 4-point loss, and Standard of New York dipped a point, rails and coppers were quiet. New York Central sagged fractionally. Rumors has it that the road may offer a large issue of rights later in the year in addition to the forthcoming bond issue, using the proceeds of the stock sale for additions and improvements.

General Electric did well, closing 2 points higher, while Sears Roebuck, with a similar gain, took a prominent part in bullish demonstrations among the merchandising shares. American Woolen's report of a larger net loss than last year was deemed less important marketwise than the stronger cash position shown at the end of the year and the preferred stock soared 5 points. Electric Auto-Lite, whose per share earnings in 1930 were slightly more than half the 1929 profits, met pool support and retained most of a 6-point rise. Auburn, up 11, and Case, up 6, were other strong spots. Amusements were soggy.

U. S. Steel Is Heavy.

Heaviness of U. S. Steel reflected uncertainty over tomorrow's unfilled tonnage statement. Although February usually sees a rise in the backlog, it has been reported that a decline will be shown this year. The stock lost as much as 1¾, but cut this down to a minor fraction. American Telephone made its best price at the opening and was lower during most of the day thereafter.

Money duplicated its recent performances, renewing at 1½ per cent and then going to 2 for new loans. The Treasury Department in the past two or three days has been building up its funds to meet veteran's loan payments and bank withdrawals have been rather large.

Final wheat prices were virtually unchanged. The slightly easier tone reflected an increase in the visible supply, moisture in the Central West and poor export demand. Corn averaged half a cent lower at the close, while cotton lost 6 to 10 points.

Chinese exchanges went to new highs for the year with the rise in silver. European currencies were quiet.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, March 9 (A.P.).—Piling up of United States visible supplies of wheat and corn pulled grain prices downward late today, more than offsetting early upturns. The late setbacks were in the face of considerable buying based on correct surmises that the Government report on farm reserve stocks of corn would prove smaller than the average of recent unofficial estimates. The official figures on farm reserves of wheat, however, were unexpectedly large, indicating much less feed use of wheat than supposed.

Wheat closed nervous at the same as Saturday's finish to ¼ cent lower, corn ⅛ to ¾ down, oats ⅛ to ½ off, and provisions showing 12 cents decline to 5 cents advance.

Knowledge of the actual contents of the official report on farm reserve stocks of grain was not available until after trading hours. The Government estimate on corn reserves was bullish, showing a total of 30,000,000 bushels under the average of latest private forecasts. In contrast, wheat reserves were bearish, 21,000,000 bushels in excess of the average of unofficial estimates. Aside from efforts to anticipate what the Government report would show, the main factor influencing corn prices was curtailment of receipts, partly a result of widespread storms. There were also indications that the peak of the season's movement of corn had been passed.

Corn primary arrivals were only 890,000 bushels compared with 1,377,000 a week back and 1,542,000 on the corresponding day of 1930. Chicago had but 103 cars, against 364 a week ago and 392 at this time last year. Wheat primary arrivals, though, persisted no a big scale, 2,445,000 bushels against 2,324,000 a week ago and 894,000 at this time last year. This circumstance with announcement later of visible supply increases gave bears an advantage for at least the moment, and more than counterbalanced the effect of decreased stocks of wheat at Liverpool and of 2,520,000 bushels decreased by the amount of wheat on ocean passage. Oats mainly followed corn.

Provisions reflected upturns in hog values, but later reacted on account of profit-taking.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—July, 63½. 64¾@64⅞; September, 63¼, 64¾. Corn—May, 64@64⅛, 65¼@65⅜; July, 66¼, 67⅛@67¼; September, 66⅛, 67⅜.

BOND MART MOVES AHEAD IRREGULARLY

Domestic Corporate Issues Less Demonstrative in Day's Trading.

New York, March 9 (A.P.).—The bond market moved ahead today, but the advance was not uniform. A few issues made sharp gains, while others slipped back.

Tangible evidence of the effect of the recent strength in the market appeared in the announcements that two syndicats will offer $50,000,000 of Pennsylvania railroad bonds and $75,000,000 bonds of the New York Central Railroad, respectively.

Rising prices encourage the flotation of new issues. Other offerings are known to be under consideration by bankers for the Consolidated Gas Co., of New York, and the Pennsylvania Power & Light Co.

Foreign obligations provided many of the more striking changes. Advances in the various issues of the Province of Antioquia ranged upward to more than 6 points in the case of the second 7s of 1957. Bolivian, Colombian, City and Province of Cordoba, Cundinamarca, Tolima, Warsaw, Porto Alegre and Rio Grande do Sul obligations gained sharply, too. Liens of the United States Government fluctuated uncertainly on a few sales. Declines among the foreign bonds were narrow and few.

Domestic corporate issues were less demonstrative in their movements. Warner Bros. Pictures reflected heavy selling pressure, dropping to a new low at 50, but recovering to 53, which represents a net loss of more than 4 points. Shubert Theater 6s were another amusement issue to suffer. Seaboard stamped 4s of 1950, Pure Oil 5½s of 1940, Lehigh Valley Coal 5s and Louisville & Nashville 4s of 1952 dropped several points each. These losses were conspicuous, rather than typical, however.

DAIRY CORPORATION NET INCOME HIGHER

Thomas W. Brahany to Quit Crane, Parris & Co., for Pierce & Co., Job.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

In its annual report to stockholders, made public today, National Dairy Products Corporation, whose local subsidiaries are Chestnut Farms Dairy and Chevy Chase Dairy, Inc., shows an all-time record in net sales volume, with an increase of $74,536,928.57, as well as an increase in per share earnings, in spite of the fact that in 1930 there were in excess of a million more shares of common stock outstanding than in 1929.

President Thomas H. McInerney, of the corporation, reports that, including operations for the entire year of companies acquired during the year and the companies held under firm contracts at December 31, and since acquired, net sales for the year, excluding all intercompany sales, totaled $374,558,411.62, as compared with $300,021,483.05 in 1929. Net profits were $25,470,942.48. This is equivalent to $4.10 a share on 6,202,177 shares of common stock outstanding December 31.

Announcement was made yesterday that Thomas W. Brahany will retire from Crane, Parris & Co., oldest local investment banking house, to manage the local office of E. A. Pierce & Co., New York Stock Exchange members, Transportation Building, which will become a correspondent of the former firm, with direct communication to the Pierce Co.'s New York office. The changes were effective at close of business yesterday. Crane, Parris & Co. will now consist of Eugene E. Thompson, B. Ogle Harper and William Knowles Cooper.

Known in Financial Circles.

Mr. Brahany is well known in financial circles here, having been especially active in directing the entertainment programs at annual conventions of the District of Columbia Bankers Association. He is a member of the Washington Stock Exchange and was born in Wisconsin. A former newspaper correspondent and Senate secretary, he was secretary of the Tariff Board and assistant secretary at the White House in the Taft and Wilson administrations.

Mr. Brahany accompanied President Wilson on his tour of the country at the close of the World War. His home is in Chevy Chase. He is a member of many organizations, including the Gridiron, Columbia Country, National Press, Blue Ridge Rod and Gun, Alfalfa and Milwaukee Press Clubs.

Terence F. Cunneen, manager of the insurance department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, is to address the managers' section of the Life Underwriters Association of Washington at luncheon today at the Hay-Adams House. Mr. Cunneen is a recognized authority on insurance administration.

Began Career as Lawyer.

He began his career as a lawyer, beginning his practice in New York City, and became deputy insurance commissioner of the State of New York in 1924, relinquishing this post to become manager of the insurance department of the national chamber in 1928.

He has written and lectured extensively on insurance subjects, as a member of the casualty lecture committee of the Insurance Society of New York. He has dealt particularly with the legal side of insurance and has written on various aspects of State supervision and the orgnaization of insurance companies.

Following the monthly meeting of the board of directors of Riggs National Bank yesterday President Robert V. Fleming stated that, in addition to the routine business, the regular semiannual 7½ per cent dividend on the capital stock of the bank, payable on April 15 to stockholders of record March 31, was declared.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, March 9 (A.P.).—An early advance in cotton today was promoted by a bullish view of the cotton cloth statistics for February, but prices later weakened under realizing or liquidation coupled with some Southern and local selling. May contracts after selling up to 11.22, or 7 points net higher, reacted to 11.05 and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 6 to 10 points.

The opening was steady, 1 point lower to 3 points higher, most of the active months being higher on trade buying and covering. This appeared to be influenced by the standard cloth statistics showing sales for February exceeding 54 per cent of production, with a decrease of 10.2 per cent in stocks on hand and an increase of 24.7 per cent in unfilled orders. There was selling on the relatively easy showing of Liverpool, however, and after the early demand had been supplied, prices easily declined under realizing or liquidation, while there appeared to be a little more selling by the South. Offerings were not large or aggressive, but there was less support in evidence, and prices reached the lowest levels of the day in the late trading. March, after the early advance to 10.99, reacted to 10.83, while October sold off from 11.73 to 11.58, closing at the lowest.

There seemed to be a little more cotton wanted around 11.05 for May, but the demand was quite readily supplied by further realizing and scattered selling. Reactionary sentiment was more in evidence during the afternoon owing to the failure of the early bulge to bring in a more aggressive demand. Houses with Liverpool connections were among the sellers here during the morning.

Liverpool cables said that Bombay buying in the market there had been supplied by realizing, but reported a fair demand for cotton cloths from the British home trade and said that business with China was improving. Port receipts today, 16,553. U. S. port stocks, 3,955,708. Exports, 24,335, making 3,268,938 so far this season.

Group May Study Gas Firm Change

No Notice of New Name Yet Received by Utilities Commission.

While the Public Utilities Commission had received no formal notification yesterday that the Seaboard Investment Trust, which more than a year ago acquired control of the Washington Gas Light Co., had assumed the name of the Washington & Suburban Co., it was unofficially stated that the matter probably would be investigated.

The inquiry would be made by Corporation Counsel William W. Bride to determine whether the shift conflicts with any provisions of the La Follette anti-merger act.

Question of the legality of the original sale brought about an investigation which resulted in a friendly suit by the commission, to make the transfer valid.

Boycott Clash Winner Over Labor Body Dies

Bridgeport, Conn., March 9 (A.P.). Daniel Davenport, an attorney who attained national distinction through his presentation of the employers' side in the famous Danbury hatters' case, died at his home here today in his seventy-ninth year.

Mr. Davenport instituted in the Federal courts the suit known as the Danbury Hatters' case, which established the individual responsibility under the Sherman antitrust act of the members of the labor unions for the interstate boycotting acts of their officers. He also instituted suit against the American Federation of Labor to restrain the activities of that organization in conducting a nation-wide boycott.

Eckener Studies Plans For Ocean Air Service

Akron, Ohio, March 9 (A.P.).—An announcement that he will continue in conference here with President P. W. Litchfield, of Goodyear Zeppelin Corporation, for the remainder of the week, Dr. Hugo Eckener, famous Zeppelin commander, today canceled plans to return to New York today.

Litchfield and Eckener are ironing out details of the plan for International Zeppelin Transport Corporation's proposed transatlantic dirigible service, the Graf Zeppelin commander admitted.

Police Peace-Making Ends in Man's Arrest

Acting Sergt. J. L. Rochford, of the Third Precinct, spent a busy half hour last night when he sought to adopt the role of a peacemaker in a domestic difficulty.

The seargeant heard what seemed to be the sound of an active disturbance in a house on H street, near Twenty-first street northwest. He investigated and found a man giving the name of Danny Lauder, 36 years old, and a woman, who, police said, was his wife, engaged in a fight. Lauder attacked the policeman, and aided by a dog battled him, police said, until the arrival of reserves from the station house. Lauder was charged with assault on an officer and disorderly conduct in a house. He was treated at Emergency Hospital.

MILD UPSETS MARK START OF POST COURT TOURNEY

Hayes Signs After Parley; All 37 Nats Now In Fold; Myer Is Named Lead-Off

Rice Placed Second, Followed by Manush, Cronin in Order.

Gilligan, Ex-Harvard Captain, Attracts Attention.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Post Staff Correspondent).

BILOXI, Miss., March 9.—After a series of debates which prevented Jack Hayes from working out today and threatened to send him out of camp, the young infielder capitulated and signed his 1931 contract tonight, thus making all of the Nationals now in the fold. All are now in camp, too, it might be mentioned, no less than 37 taking part in the workout this morning.

The terms of Hayes' contract were not announced, as is the custom of Owner Griffith. The utility infielder had been holding out for a salary which would place him on the scale of the lowest-paid regular, it had been said.

Because of the chilly wind which swept the field, Manager Walter Johnson divided his squad into shifts, the regulars working early and then getting out of the way so that the rookies could get in their practice licks.

With many newcomers on the job, quite a gallery was attracted to the drill and these fans were given their first taste of real baseball when, with "Uncle Nick" Altrock at the bat, the first infield drill of the season was held. And, believe it or not, the Nats' inner works apparently picked up where it left off last season, and some brilliant fielding was shown by every member of the cast.

Cronin Brilliant In Field.

Joe Cronin, although just off the train after a three-day trip from San Francisco, came through with some fine stops and made some accurate pegs while out of position, and this also applies to Buddie Myer and Ossie Bluege, with Joe Judge snagging everything that came his way.

With batting and pitching, which also gives the fielders practice, taking up the entire drill, the volley-ball games seem to be a thing of the past, and from now on Manager Johnson and his players are taking their work seriously.

Johnson, President Clark Griffith and Capt. Joe Judge had a lengthy conference tonight with respect to the batting order. The uniform makers wired today asking how the players should be numbered, and as Johnson wants to send them to the plate in one, two, three order, if possible, the "board of strategy" was asked to meet.

Cronin Fourth in Batting Order.

Practically only one change was made in the numbers assigned the regulars, Joe Cronin, No. 6 last year, getting No. 4 by virtue of being clean-up man. Here's the order for the opening game, unless something unforeseen happens: No. 1, Myer, second base; No. 2, Sam Rice, right field; No. 3, Manush, left field; No. 4, Cronin, short stop; No. 5, Judge, first base; No. 6, West, center field, and No. 7, Bluege, third base, with the catcher and pitcher following.

Two minor injuries occurred at today's drill. Infielder Wally Dashiell pulling a little Charley horse—just a "colt," according to Trainer Mike Martin—and Pitcher Lloyd Brown being hit hard enough on his salary wing by a bounder off Catcher Pinky Hargrave's bat to stop him for the day.

Both should be all right, or practically so, within a day or so, says Martin.

One of the rookies, who attracted considerable attention at the session this morning was Outfielder Tommy Gilligan, former Harvard collegian. Gilligan, who is 6 feet 1 inch tall, weighs 185 pounds, and is 23 years of age, is a powerful lad with a reputation in "rah rah" ranks for being a real slugger.

Gilligan Hit .392 At Harvard.

Gilligan, who hails from Newton, just outside of Boston, won the Wingate Trophy at "Dear Old Harvard" in 1929, this being offered to the best all-around ball player. He hit at a .392 rate last season and showed considerable power at this morning's drill. He is not a long-distance hitter, but specializes in clean drives over the infield somewhat like Heine Manush's custom.

Johnson indicated this morning that this big son of Johnnie Har-

Second Place Predicted For Nats

THE Washington Ball Club will be a bigger and better team in more ways than one this year, but the Philadelphia Athletics are going to win the pennant again, and by about four games, is the contention of Henry P. Bragg, of 3420 R street northwest.

Complying with the simple rules of The Post's contest—which call for the fans to express an opinion in 250 words on the 1931 prospects of the Nats and the probable make-up of the club—Mr. Bragg goes on to add that Harry Rice will get the call over Sam West by reason of superior hitting power, and that the outfield line-up will read: Rice, Manush and Rice.

Mr. Bragg, however, neglects to name an infield.

Tauscher Is Best Rookie

Crowder, Marberry, Jones, Brown, Liska and Burke will have better luck than last year, but Hadley will not improve. Spencer, Hargrave and Kenna will do the receiving. Bolton will be used only as a pinch-hitter. Walter Tauscher is the only rookie pitcher who will succeed.

Mr. Bragg picks the A's despite the fact that he admits that the Nats are a better balanced outfit. The A's, in the words of the writer, are a "four-man team: Foxx, Simmons, Grove and Cochrane." Washington's only hope of scaling the American League heights lies in the chance that the quartet of Connie Mack's boys mentioned above have poor years.

"But that," finishes Mr. Bragg, "is improbable."

Box Seats Awaiting Winner

Those six opening day box seats The Post is offering for the best essay are still out there waiting to be filled. Restating the rules again, the composition must be limited to 250 words and must include the fan's reasons why he believes the team will finish in the spot he has chosen, and why he believes that the line-up will read as he lists it.

Address your own ideas to The Post's "Baseball Editor." The contest closes April 1. Write only on one side of the paper.

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., March 9.—Orville E. Neal, who last fall piloted the Virginia Polytechnic Institue eleven to the State championship, will coach the Gobblers next fall, C. P. Miles, director of athletics, announced today. The contract is for one year.

G. U. Prep Five Beats St. John's in Finale

Atoning for a previous defeat suffered at the hands of the same team, the Georgetown Prep tossers closed their season yesterday afternoon by handing St. John's a 27-to-20 defeat in a battle staged on the Johnnies' floor before 250 persons.

U. tournament now being staged at Tech High School, the Quantico Marine 145-pound cagers scored a double victory at the expense of Swavely Prep, whom they trounced 52 to 29, and the Columbia A. C., of Washington, who bowed, 61 to 8.

Braves Pound Brooklyn Hurlers

Quin Victim in Attack Led by Berger and Sheely.

Midseason Pitching Flashed by Brandt, Cunningham.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 9 (A.P.).—With Ed Brandt and Grant Cunningham working in mid-season form, the Boston Braves pounded out a 10 to 2 decision over the Brooklyn Robins in the first of their spring series today.

The two veteran Boston hurlers let the Robins down with seven hits while their team mates were slamming the offerings of Old Jack Quinn, Ray Phelps and Fred Heimach all over the park. A total of 14 hits, including a home run by Wally Berger and four safeties in as many times at bat by Earl Sheely, rang off the Braves' bats.

Vergez Good Work Aids McGraw's Plan.

San Antonio, Tex., Mar. 9 (A.P.).—John McGraw's efforts to turn Freddie Lindstorm into an outfielder may turn out to be more than a gesture if Johnny Vergez comes through at third base for the New York Giants' chieftain.

"Lindstrom's a natural ball player," said McGraw today, "and he will make good in any position. Vergez looks like a pretty good third baseman. He cut loose for the first time today and he impressed me with his poise."

Friberg's Phillies Win in Practice.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 9 (U.P.).—Barney Friberg's team defeated one captained by Dick Barteil 8 to 5 in a practice game at the Phillies camp today.

Freddy Koster's triple in the sixth scoring two men was the winning hit.

Ban Johnson Takes More Nourishment

St. Louis, Mo., March 9 (A.P.).—Considerable improvement was noted today in the condition of Ban Johnson, retired president of the American League, but his condition continued serious, attaches at St. John's Hospital here said.

The former baseball czar took more nourishment today than he had at any time for several weeks.

Mixed Doubles Bowling Prize Winners Named

In addition to the handsome gold medals they received for winning the mixed doubles championship of the United States in the National Duckpin Bowling Congress' fourth annual national tournament, recently concluded, Elsie Fischer and Paul Harrison, of Washington, also will be awarded $75 in cash for their feat, George L. Isemann, congress secretary, announced yesterday. Mrs. Fischer and Harrison copped the event with a 699 total, which also is a new national record for mixed doubles.

Thomson Elected President Of District Golf Association

By BOB CONSIDINE.

SCHEDULES of the major golf events which the District will see this year, drawn up at a preliminary meeting a week ago, were approved last night as the District of Columbia Golf Association met in conclave at the Racquet Club, the seventeenth time in that many years that the gavel had called such a meeting to order.

Dave Thomson, of the Manor Club, was elected president of the body for the ensuing year. Other officers read: Clyde B. Asher, Columbia, first vice president; Robert Stead, jr., Chevy Chase, second vice president; W. C. Barr, secretary-treasurer. To these were added the names of Dr. B. L. Taylor, of Congressional, retiring president; A. E. Steinem, of Woodmont, and J. T. McClenahan, Washington, as additions to the executive committee.

The District of Columbia championship will be played at Chevy Chase, September 10 and 11. The Manor Club is the scene of the junior championship, to be played September 2.

A new tournament—the senior championship of the District, open to players above 55 years of age—evolved out of the meeting last night and was placed in the hands of the executive committee, which will render decisions on both the time and the place of the event.

Army War College was the lone club in the District Association not represented last night. Columbia was spoken for by Albert Mackenzie and W. C. Barr; Chevy Chase, Robert Stead, jr.; Burning Tree, Walter R. Tuckerman; Congressional, Dr. Bruce L. Taylor and Page Hufty; Washington, Dr. J. T. McClenahen and Fred Paxton; Woodmont, Max Weyl and A. E. Steinmen; Manor, Dave Thomas and Ray E. Garrity; Argyle, T. W. Le Duc and Frank Butler; Bannockburn, Middleton Beaman.

Godfrey, in Debut as Wrestler, Throws Foe With Mystery Hold

NEWARK, March 9 (U.P.).—George Godfrey, gigantic Negro heavyweight boxer, made his wrestling debut tonight before 3,500 fans.

Less than twenty minutes after he lazily lifted his 260 pounds of dark meat in the ring he had thrown his opponent, one John Grandovitch, of Jugoslavia, thoroughly, if not neatly. As Grandovitch was billed as the champion of his country, it is only fair that in the future Godfrey be billed not only as the Negro champion of the world, but as Negro champion of the world, including the Jugoslavian.

Immediately after the bout, Jimmy Dougherty, the Negro's manager, said he would show George Jugoslavia on the map the first thing in the morning.

As a result of his triumph in the first "mixed" bout in the East, Godfrey is likely to find himself in line for matches with Jim Londos, Ed Don George, Jim McMillen and the other members of wrestling's "400."

Asked after the match the name of the hold he used to conquer Grandovitch, Godfrey replied:

"Ah's sure I don't know. But whatever it was I seen I had him when I got it."

Indoor Title Net Play Draws Few U. S. Stars

New York, March 9 (A.P.).—Barring last-minute entries, only a thin line of first-ranking American tennis players will be in the trenches to repel the thrusts of Jean Borotra and his French team in the American indoor championships, which open Monday in New York.

With the entry lists closing tonight, only Cliff Sutter, Frank X. Shields, Berkeley Bell and Gregory Mangin, of the ranking stars, had filed their entries for the singles.

John Hope Doeg, American outdoor champion, John Van Ryn George Lott, jr., who with Shields form the American cup team that will meet Borotra and his mates in an indoor "Davis Cup" competition after the end of the tournament, had not filed singles entries up to 1:30 today. It was understood they had decided to reserve their energies for the team matches March 23, 24 and 25, although Van Ryn and Lott may recant and enter the doubles.

Francis T. Hunter, now a professional, won the singles in 1930.

Londos Agrees to Meet Carnera in Exhibition

Boston, March 9 (U.P.).—Jim Londos, Greek heavyweight wrestler, has accepted a challenge of Primo Carnera, Italian boxer, to meet him in an exhibition wrestling match, it was announced tonight by Ray Fabiani, Boston Garden matchmaker.

Fabiani said he would guarantee Carnera, winner of a decision over Jim Maloney in a recent bout at Miami, Fla., 25 per cent of the gross gate receipts in event of a match between the two men.

McMillen Tosses Szabo in 58 Minutes

Madison Square Garden, March 9 (U.P.).—Jimmy McMillen, of Illinois, won over Sandor Szabo, of Hungary, in a heavyweight wrestling match tonight. McMillen weighed 214 and Szabo 200. McMillen won on a top scissors and bar lock after 58 minutes.

C. U. Hopes to Fight In Intercollegiates

Catholic University's boxers, in the hope of competing in the Eastern intercollegiate championships late this month, are continuing to train, although their regular campaign closed last Saturday night with the Cornell match.

The intercollegiate meet, an invitation affair, is to be held under the auspices of Penn State College.

PLAY CENTRAL HIGH.

Boasting a star array of former high school cage stars, the United Typewriter quintet will strive for its fourteenth consecutive triumph tonight when it stacks up against the strong Central High School team at the Central gym, starting at 8 o'clock.

Card Rookies Down A's, 4 to 3

Youngsters Upset Grove, Walberg in Surprise.

Former Marine Ace Injured Playing With Browns.

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 9 (A. P.).—The St. Louis Cardinals, National League kings, heaped insult upon injury today by using three of their rawest rookie "chain store" pitchers to whip the world's champion Philadelphia Athletics, 4 to 3, and take the third game of the "spring world's series" in Florida. It was the second victory for the Red Birds.

The Cardinals battled as though it meant something, so much so that Manager Gabby Street led a protest in the seventh inning on a battery decision, that led to a reversal of the umpire's first verdict.

Connie Mack manifested his desire to win by starting his celebrated battery, Lefty Grove and Mickey Cochrane, then following with two more veteran twirlers, Eddie Rommel and Rube Walberg. Grove, in his exhibition debut, was rapped for six hits in three innings, three of these blows, including a double by Watkins, being combined to manufacture the first Cardinal run in the third.

Cardinal Pitchers Rawest of Rookies.

Street's mound selections were so obscure their names were not to be found on any player lists and their identity established only after much research.

The first, Delano Witherell, a southpaw belonging to Danville, Ill., was shelled for all three of the Athletics' runs in the fourth. The next southpaw, Bill Marshall, owned by Greensboro, N. C., was wild, but held the Mackmen hitless for three innings and was credited with winning the game. Dave Pruitt, a right-hander, with Keokuk, Iowa, last year, but now the property of St. Joseph, Mo., finished the last two innings, yielding two singles.

Levey's Arm Injured In Brown's Practice.

West Palm Beach, March 9 (A.P.).—Jim Levey, the Browns' fleet-footed shortstop, received a bad bruise on the right arm just above the elbow today when he was hit by a batted ball. It is not thought that the injury will prove serious, however.

The accident came during a charity benefit game between the Killifer men and George Lamaze's Patio team.

Peck Personally "Points" Shortstop.

New Orleans, La., March 9 (A.P.).—While the Cleveland Americans rested today Manager Roger Peckinpaugh revealed that tomorrow he will start personally to correct the weakness that kept Shortstop Goldman from being one of the best in the league last year.

That was his inability to work speedily as the pivot in a double play. Goldman is the "varsity" shortstop and his leading rival is Bill Hunnefield, formerly of the White Sox.

Columbia Five Wins College Cage Crown

New York, March 9 (A.P.).—The Columbia Lions clinched the Eastern Intercollegiate Basket Ball League championship for the second straight year tonight, defeating Dartmouth 37—31.

ST. JOHN'S VS. LANDON.

The lone scholastic basket ball game today features St. John's Cadets, unofficial prep school champions of the city, in a contest with Landon School's tossers. The game will be played at Epiphany gym, the home court of the Landon boys, and will begin at 3:30 o'clock.

Joe E. Brown's Actors Beaten by Cubs, 19-1

Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, Calif., March 9 (U.P.).—Joe E. Brown, movie comedian, brought his baseball team of Hollywood actors and authors here today and took a 19-to-1 drubbing from the Chicago Cubs.

Brown started at second base, changed to first and in the ninth batted out of turn, announcing "Brown batting for exercise." The Cubs' regulars played two innings and were replaced by yannigans.

Blake held the Browns to two hits in five innings and Teachout yielded three blows in the last four. The Cubs loaned Montague to the Browns to pitch the last seven innings.

10 p. m.—Bolling Field vs. First Baptist Church (unlimited class, first round).

SOUTHWEST Washington is expected to provide the thrills tonight on the three-game program of The Post's fifth annual A. A. U. championship tournament at the Tech High gymnasium, Second and T streets, northeast. Two traditional rivals from the section below the Mall—the Mercury and Palace-District Grocery Stores clubs—will clash head on in an unlimited class battle starting at 9:30 o'clock.

Two other unlimited class games are scheduled. The crack Mount Vernon five, which has always performed capably in the A. A. U. tournaments, meets the Y. M. C. A. team at 8:30 o'clock, while the Potomac Boat Club, which reached the finals last year, meets the Trinity Church five in the opener at 7:30 o'clock.

Mercury-Palace Game "Natural."

While the other contests appear to involve evenly-matched teams, the Mercury-Palace game, with its keen sectional rivalry, holds chief interest among the fans.

Attempts to get these rivals together on the football field at the close of the last season failed. They likewise have steered clear of each other in basket ball. With their meeting scheduled in the tournament and on the neutral Tech court, some of the liveliest battling of the season is expected.

Only one or two of the players who battled their way to the finals last years are in the line-up of the Potomac Boat Club. The majority of its players went back to their old combination of Clovers. However, the present edition of Boatmen, while they have had only a fair season, are a fighting lot and have pointed especially for the tournament.

Players like Charlie Millar, former Eastern football star; Eston Barker, Dick Kelso and the rest are bound to give any club a fight.

Trinity M. E., which has competed in several tournaments, has a well-rounded combination which includes Lee Glascock, Pat Clifford and Frank Xanton among its stars.

Mount Vernon, fresh from its battles for the Sunday School League title, has practically the same team which has represented the church previously. Melton, Young, Gray, Terneak and McQueen are well-known in local court ranks.

The Churchmen are meeting a good team in Y. M. C. A. The "Y" Club is hardly up to the caliber of other years, but is expected to present a scrappy front tonight.

The nominal fee of 25 cents is charged to each night's program in the tournament.

Spring Gridiron Drill At C. U. Begins Today

Spring football practice at Catholic University begins today under the supervision of Head Coach Dutch Bergman. Between 40 and 45 players, the largest number ever gathered for such activity at the Brookland school, are due to take the field at 4 o'clock.

Mills Assumes Charge Of Hoya Grid Practice

Head Coach Tommy Mills yesterday took charge of Georgetown's football squad in spring practice at the Hilltop. Johnny Colrick, assistant in charge of ends, joined the workout at the same time, but he will soon leave the gridiron for the diamond, to serve as the Hoyas' baseball mentor.

Coach Colrick plans to call out the baseball squad as soon as the temperature rises a bit.

'00 Fans See Whirlwinds Bow, 31-13, to St. Martin.

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS.

UNLIMITED CLASS—Red Stars, 40; De Molay, 24 (preliminary round); St. Martin's, 31; Eastern Whirlwinds, 13 (first round).

145-POUND CLASS—Crescents, 54; Nativity, 20 (first round).

SERIOUS contenders for titles in two classes were revealed last night as The Washington Post's fifth annual tournament for the District of Columbia A. A. U. basket ball championships was launched before more than 500 fans in the Tech High School gymnasium.

Taking the floor in the first game, following the toss-up ceremonies, the Crescents established themselves as an outstanding threat for the 145-pound class crown by trouncing the Nativity A. C. five by a score of 54 to 20. Then followed the Red Stars' surprising victory over the De Molay quintet by 40 to 24, in the unlimited division and the equally surprising triumph of the St. Martin's club over the Eastern Whirlwinds by 31 to 13, also in the unlimited class.

True to the past traditions of The Post tournament, the dope was knocked asunder last night, not so much in the elimination of the Nativitys, De Molays and Eastern Whirlwinds, but in the size of the scores by which these routs were accomplished. The De Molays, title winners in the Intercity League, were no match for the Red Stars, while the highly regarded Eastern Whirlwinds disappointed sadly in their clash with St. Martin's.

The tournament is the second under the auspices of the District Association of the A. A. U., of which John D. O'Reilly, famed Georgetown coach, is president. The Boys' Club Band rendered some snappy numbers during the intermissions.

Schaffert Hero in Crescents' Win.

The clever teamwork of the Crescents proved too much for the Nativitys in their first round game in the 145-pound class and resulted in a 54-20 victory for the former.

With their attack revolving about the elongated Leonard Schaffert, forward, the Crescents established an early lead and added to their margin as the game progressed, holding a 33-11 advantage at the half.

The Nativitys presented one of the cleverest players seen in 145-pound ranks this season in "Irish" Mahoney who strove valiantly to cut down the Crescents' advantage in the second half but failed to receive the support of his teammates. Schaffert's ten field goals and four fouls proved enough to defeat the Nativitys single-handed. Weigel was also in the limelight for the winners.

Although the Crescents were regarded as one of the favorites in the division, the size of the score against the Nativitys was a mild surprise.

Red Stars Oust De Molay.

The De Molays' bid for further honors after their recent successful campaign in the Intercity League was halted when they fell victim to the Red Stars in a preliminary round game in the unlimited division by a 40-24 score.

Bill Woodward, former Central High School captain and more recently of North Carolina State University, returned to lead the Red Stars to a decisive victory, scoring five field goals.

The Red Stars established themselves as one of the threats in the unlimited class with a well-balanced attack and a defense that limited the De Molays to eight field goals.

St. Martins Stage Strong Finish.

St. Martin's, exhibiting a little too much class for their rivals, stepped out in the second half to defeat the Eastern Whirlwinds, 31 to 13. The first session was fairly close, ending 11-7 in favor of the Saints, but with Heiss and Augusterfer leading a potent attack in the second chapter, the Whirlwinds faded from the picture.

Heiss showed the way in individual scoring with five field goals and three charity points, for a total of 13, Augusterfer shone at the foul line, sinking four 1-pointers.

SCHOOL NINES' DRILLS CONFINED TO BATTERYMEN

Eastern Seen Chief Threat Again

Release of Marks in 10 Days Awaited by Squads.

Series Opens Apr. 17; Bright Outlook at Business.

AS BEFITS the season of the year, the high school ball players are going through their 1931 diamond fundamentals safely ensconced in their gymnasiums. Work, for the present, is consigned largely to pitchers and catchers. The duties of the greater mass of players are awaiting the pleasure of the ball diamonds, and the release of this advisory's scholastic marks, both due in about ten days.

The schedules of the teams are gradually fattening, with the high school series games—beginning April 17—holding the feature spots.

Already Eastern begins to take shape again as the team which must be beaten to win the title. The Lincoln Park school is noted as a gathering place for most of the diamond material of the high schol class. Eastern not only has several 1930 regulars still eligible to play, but the chances for retention of the title are also enhanced by the fact that the series games will be played on their home grounds.

Series Scene Changed
At Central's Request.

The playing field at Eastern is not a marked improvement over Central's, both having Texas Leaguer fences, but that school objected to the playing of the series again on its field. Central felt that its playing ground was utilized a bit too much as a public high school rendezvous. It was the home grounds for football, track meets, baseball and forms of cadet drills. This year it asked that it be relieved of its baseball assignment, and Eastern secured the franchise.

Baseball time at Business High is generally a joyous period of the year. It is one of the two athletic seasons during the year when the Stenogs are on speaking terms with the rest of the high schools. The outlook at the Rhode Island avenue school is bright. Three players picked by The Post's 1930 all-high expert are back in harness: Bill Duryee, left field; Clayton Schneider, second base, and Al Fratantuono, right field.

Tech will have a diamond of its own for the first time this year, and also a fairly capable list of regulars back in Bassford, Russell, Thomas, Willard, Crenshaw and Wood, battery men; and Benner, Levy, English and perhaps Russell in the infield. Tech has to build an outfield.

RULE B

Transfer From Tech
To Help Central.

centrating on Alley, Betancourt, Bonner and Wright, pitchers; and Cook and Kiernan, catchers. Keyser and Dunlop look good to Rauber as future mound material, and Central also will be aided by Emmett Buscher, a recent transfer from Tech.

Roy Yowell, catcher, is almost the foundation of the Western High team for this season. Tom Porre, Everett Buscher and George Martin are three flingers who were used off and on last season, but are still regarded as relief pitchers. Clark, Oliver and Fox, infielders, and Taylor, Pimper and Pond, outfielders, are expected to hold their old places despite the recent acquisitions to the squad.

Following is the high school series schedule:

April 17, Tech vs. Central; 21, Eastern vs. Business; 24, Western vs. Central; 28, Eastern vs. Tech.

May 1, Western vs. Business; 6, Eastern vs. Central; 8, Tech vs. Business; 12, Eastern vs. Western.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

MRS. MARY ANN SMITH can, without a doubt, lay claim to having the most unique way of earning a livelihood. As a professional pea shooter, Mrs. Smith shoots peas at window panes to arouse those who have to begin their labors early in the morning. The Smiths reside in the Limehouse district of London, in a neighborhood where many of the residents can not afford the luxury of an alarm clock, and that's where the pea shooter comes in handy. Mrs. Smith arises each morning at 3:30 and starts on her route, shooting peas against the window panes of her customers until they awake and poke their heads out the window and cry "nuff." For her services Mrs. Smith charges a few pennies a week.

The crarab beetles show so much affection for their young that they remain down in their burrows, going without food, in order to attend to the every need of their brood from the time they are grubs until they become insects.

In the past two years Seward Cary, despite his advanced age, played more games of polo than any of the other 70-odd players at Meadow Brook.

Any reader wanting further proof of anything depicted here should address the author, care of The Washington Post, and enclose a stamped and self-addressed envelope for reply. JOHN HIX.

—St. John's Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE fourth race for 3-year-olds at 5½ furlongs features the St. John's Park program today. It is the only race listed that is not a claiming affair. Seven have been named for the sprint, of which the May Rose Stable's OCCURRENCE seems best. ST. AGNES, which has had a rest of several weeks, is rated as the contender. NOAJOYCE should hold the others safe.

The first race is for maiden 2-year-olds. MY PURCHASE is overdue and picked to win brackets. ARGIEN can do better than recent races show, and may be the contender. RIVER LEE looks like show money.

STRETCHER looks best on recent races for the second race. Keen competition may come from Corsican, now at top form. SANDY HATCH, scratched yesterday, also will be a formidable rival, and has been tabbed for show money.

NORSE, a Miami failure, may prove the best of the third race, on the supposition that the change in tracks may work to his advantage. MANAGER EVERS should be the contender. INTREPID has a chance for show money, but his recent Miami races suggest the possibility of having gone stale.

DR. PARRISH seems best of the seasoned platers in the fifth race, in which he finds the distance best suited, a mile and a sixteenth. He will have opposition from TYPHOON. The two are almost equally weighted and it should be a good race. Play Fellow's Dream is best of the others.

The sixth race is for 3-year-olds. RAMUS is picked to win the mile gallop. MUFF is overdue and should be a keen contender. UPSWEET will be a factor in the race.

ALL COLUMBIA, a promising 3-year-old who won two races at Miami, is the class of the seventh race. He should win going away. R. K. GIRL should be the contender in this dash. BROWN GOLD seems best of the others and should save the show money.

RECORD ODDS QUOTED ON SUN BEAU

Kilmer Star Is Shortest Price Favorite in Big Race.

AGUA CALIENTE, Baja California, Mexico, March 9.—Probably never before in the history of thoroughbred racing has a favorite been held in such high esteem in a future book as is Sun Beau, the Willis Sharpe Kilmer champion, now an odds-on choice for the $140,000 Agua Caliente Handicap, March 22.

Weeks before this great classic his price is 4 to 5. A veritable deluge of money for Sun Beau has forced his odds down to this quotation.

Thus Sun Beau holds the distinction of being the shortest price favorite ever posted in a future book for the Cofroth Handicap and its successor, the Agua Caliente Handicap. His price is quite a bit shorter than was quoted for Carlaris, the wonder horse of 1926.

HAYES LAST OF 37 NATIONALS TO SIGN

vard will be given preferred attention.

With the exhibition season opening here Thursday against the Baltimore Orioles, there is considerable rivalry among the younger pitchers regarding the assignments. Three will be used in three-frame shifts, and Johnson has told the rookies to be prepared for a test at tomorrow's practice session. This means that the batters should see much more stuff than has been evident at previous drills.

The Orioles also will be entertained here Sunday and President Clark Griffith is authority for the statement that Manager Walter Johnson will pitch two or three frames. Johnson, however, is authority for the statement that he will not pitch any frames. On the face of things, the odds should be even, but those who know Johnson well are backing the manager and giving whatever odds are asked.

Appeal Set Today In Vending Action

Use of Cigarette Machine Is Issue Before Virginia Supreme Court.

H. Bruce Green, Arlington County attorney, will argue the G. B. Macke Vending Machine case before the Supreme Court of Virginia, today in Richmond.

The State will be represented by Attorney General Col. John R. Saunders. The case was first tried in Police Court before Judge Harry R. Thomas.

Macke was charged with operating a vending machine in which cigarettes were disposed unlawfully, and in violation of the State tax code. He was fined $29.50, including costs. A writ of error was granted by the Court of Appeals.

San Francisco, March 9 (A.P.).—For using "profane language" over the radio Robert G. Duncan, of Portland, Oreg., must serve six months' imprisonment and pay a $500 fine, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals ruled today.

The decision upholds the right of the Government to regulate the use of language in broadcasting and to impose penalties on radio speakers who employ profane, indecent or obscene language on the air. Duncan's conviction was affirmed. Duncan's utterances were made over Station KVEP, at Portland, while he was campaigning for Congress.

TUESDAY MORNING — The Washington Post. — MARCH 10, 1931

BURROUGHS CITIZENS HAND OLIVE TWIG TO RHODE ISLAND GROUP

Feud Over Territorial Lines and Schools May Soon Be Declared at End.

SPEAKERS URGE PEACE AND FULL COOPERATION

More Band Concerts Favored for Outlying Sections; Educators Talk.

The Burroughs Citizens Association last night moved to extend the olive branch to the Rhode Island Avenue Citizens Association in its drawn out feud with that organization over new school facilities and territorial limits.

Following a two-hour rehearsal of the quarrel at a meeting in the John Burroughs School, the association voted to again approach the Rhode Island avenue group with a view to fixing a definite boundary line between the two associations.

This step was adopted as an alternative plan, after the association voted to table a proposal that a delegation be sent to a Rhode Island avenue citizens meeting to make a statement of policy and attemp to adjust differences.

Smith Urges Harmony.

Chester R. Smith, former president of the Rhode Island Avenue group, who attended the meeting, made a spech in which he urged the Burroughs unit to "drop the whole matter." He said he had only heard adverse criticism of the Burroughs Association at one meeting of the Rhode Island Avenue group, adding there was no reason the two associations should not cooperate.

The discussion was precipitated when the secretary read a resolution adopted at the last meeting of the Rhode Island Avenue Citizens Association accusing the Burroughs body of "impertinence" in requesting that it explain an alleged discrepancy in the association's support of the junior high school site at Eighteenth and Perry streets, and its officers' adverse testimony before the congressional committee.

Wiliam A. Horn said the controversy "is getting to the point that members of the two associations are calling each other names." It was he who urged that a delegate be sent to explain its stand to the Rhode Island Association.

Favor Fixed Boundary.

Wilbur S. Finch, vice president of the association, charged that the Rhode Island Avenue Association "doesn't fight in the open," but "operates in secret against this association." He said that the fight could only be closed by the establishment of a fixed boundary line, and it was his resolution to this end that eventually was adopted.

The association adopted a resolution urging that fewer band concerts be held on the Monument Lot, and more in outlying communities. Another resolution commended Superintendent of Schools Ballou for his part in securing a junior high school for the vicinity.

Selden M. Ely, supervising principal of the Fifth Division, and Chester W. Holmes, principal of the Langley Junior High School, addressed the association, outlining junior high school objectives.

Drive to Oil-Heat Capital Is Begun

Washington Is Selected as Center for Nation-Wide Campaign.

An intensive campaign "to place oil burners in the majority of Washington homes" was inaugurated last night at a mass meeting of the Oil Heating Institute of America.

The campaign, which is to be Nation-wide in scope, is to last three months. Washington has been selected as the focal point because of its strategic locality, because of the more salubrious condition of business here, it was announced.

The meeting was attended by manufacturers of oil burners, dealers and salesmen who are members of the Oil Heating Institute. Cooperation of the Potomac Electric Co. was pledged by C. Melvin Sharpe, vice president of the company. W. T. Johnson will direct the campaign.

$500 and $100 Bills Stolen From Window

To attract attention to his store, Edward Franks placed bills in denominations of $500, $100 and $50 in his display window at 434 Ninth street northwest. They attracted a thief who took $600 and left $50.

Mr. Franks found it necessary to step out of his store early yesterday. He locked the door and left a man to notify him in case a prospective customer appeared. When he returned the watcher was gone and so were the $500 and $100 bills.

Kensington Groups Enter Federation

Montgomery County Civic Organization Takes in New Members.

After more than two hours of bitter debate, the Montgomery County Civic Federation, meeting in the Bethesda schoolhouse last night, voted to admit both the Kensington Chamber of Commerce and the Kensington Board of Trade to full membership in the federation.

The vote on admitting both the organizations was brought to the fore by Maj. E. Brooke Lee, who proposed that a motion to admit both be adopted.

That was done after charges and countercharges of playing politics with the two organizations that were seeking membership had been bruited about. It was pointed out that the Chamber of Commerce had sought membership 40 days in advance of the Board of Trade.

Woman's Death Held Natural.

Natural causes was given by Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt as the cause of the death of Mrs. Mabel Bracey, 45 years old, who was found dead Sunday night in a room in a downtown hotel. Dr. Nevitt performed an autopsy yesterday.

NORTHEAST CITIZENS REQUEST STOP SIGNS

Open Playgrounds During Summer Also Are Urged by Group.

By unanimous resolution, the members of the Northeast Washington Citizens' Association last night decided to ask the District Commissioners to have stop signs placed at Sixth and D streets and on Tennessee avenue between B and Fifteenth streets northeast, and traffic lights placed on H street at the intersection of Sixth, Eleventh and Thirteenth streets, and on Fifth street at Florida avenue.

Resolutions were also adopted asking the school authorities to have a survey made of the condition of school floors in the Northeast section, with special reference to Ludlow School, where the meeting was held last night, and asking that playgrounds in the Northeast part of the city be open until dusk effective from this date to the close of summer, explaining that children in that part of the city had no place to play and keep off the streets.

The Commissioners were to be asked, as the result of resolutions, to have street lights in the section bounded by East Capitol and Florida avenue, and North Capitol and Fifteenth streets, brought up to date, and to replace a tree which has died at the corner of Tenth and D streets.

The action of the Public Utilities Commission in conducting an investigation into the gas pressure and rates in the District was indorsed by unanimous resolution.

Citizens Score Plans For District Upkeep

A resolution opposing the present proportion of Federal money paid for the maintenance of the District was adopted last night at a meeting of the Stanton Park Citizens Association.

The members declared that the Government had not changed the amount since they took over a large amount of taxable property in the District that otherwise would be yielding a large amount to the city in taxes.

The meeting was held at the Peabody School, at Fifth and C streets northeast. The secretary was notified to draft and send to the corporation counsel's office and to the Federation of Citizens Association a letter complaining about the present charge made for gas in the District.

Citizens Indorse Beautifying Parks

Takoma Association Gives Items for Purchase of School Site.

The proposed development and beautification of parks and lands in Potomac Park was indorsed by the Takoma Park Citizens Association last night.

The association also indorsed the plans for the George Washington Bicentennial as recently outlined by the bicentennial commission. The school committee reported that the item for purchase of a site for a senior high school north of Brightwood had been retained in the District appropriation bill.

The following were appointed delegates to the District of Columbia Public School Association: S. E. Blasingham, William M. Greene and Mrs. W. A. Hooker. Burt W. Andrews was appointed alternate delegate.

Reservoir Conversion To Park Will Be Asked

Conversion of the Sixteenth street reservoir into a recreation park will be urged by representatives of the Piney Branch Citizens Association at a special meeting of the Mount Pleasant Forum next Saturday, it was announced last night at a meeting of the Piney Branch Association.

Extension was asked of curbing and resurfacing on Delafield place to Piney Branch road, and to Georgia avenue; also for the completion of this work on Emerson street.

Snowden's Condition Unchanged.

London, March 9 (A.P.).—There was no change tonight in the condition of Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, who has been ill at his home in Surry for several days. He is suffering with inflammation of the bladder.

Monument's Red Glare Warning to Aviators

Bathed in the glare of a bright red light, the dome of the Washington Monument last night stood out in the darkness, a vivid landmark for aviators coming into the city and, incidentally, a warning to low-flying pilots.

The visibility of the Monument, which was roundly sworn at by aviators who had come perilously close to hitting it in a fog or on a moonless night, was excellent last night, and the experiment will probably be kept up. Two warning lights on either side of the shaft also served to show up the huge granite pile.

Bandit Idles, Gas Is Sold, Police Happy

"Have you any little holdups to report."

Washington policemen last night asked that strange question of the proprietors of gasoline stations here following a report that filtered back here from Baltimore. They got no affirmative answers.

Two men, arrested in Baltimore, said that a third member of their group was in Washington attending to the business of robbing a gasoline station. He has yet to do it, police said.

Husband Is Jailed For Burning Wife

Earl Polen Also Fined $10 on Intoxication Charge; May Be Paroled.

Charges of assaulting his wife Saturday in their home on Twelfth street near D street southwest drew a six months' jail sentence in Police Court yesterday morning for Earle R. Polen. He also was fined $10 upon conviction of an intoxication charge.

Mrs. Ethel M. Polen told Judge Isaac R. Hitt that her husband, during the alleged attack, tore off her clothes and sat her on a hot radiator. She told the court that they had three children and that while her husband did not have a permanent job he obtained work occasionally.

Polen, in court, refused Judge Hitt's request for the name of the bootlegger, but later sent word through a bailiff that he did not know the names of the liquor vendors, but was ready to give their addresses. Judge Hitt indicated that he might entertain a recommendation for a probation for the man.

Old Center Market Hit By Fire; One Man Hurt

A fire broke out yesterday in the west wing of the old Center Market and was extinguished after two hours stubborn work by firemen. The fire was in sawdust placed in flooring between the first and second floors. The sawdust was placed there orginally to deaden the noise of a bowling alley.

Sidney Carter, a fireman attached to No. 3 Truck Company, received a broken ankle when he fell from one roof to another, a distance of 15 feet. He was taken to Emergency Hospital. This was the second fire there since the Government began razing the building.

Man Given Sentence For Carrying Weapons

Frank Joseph McGrath, 23 years old, of First street near A street northeast, was sentenced by Judge Isaac R. Hitt in Police Court yesterday morning to 180 days on one count, and 180 days or $500 fine on another count on charges of carrying a deadly weapon with intent to use.

Ruth Rogers, of H street near First street northeast, testified that McGrath accosted her Friday near Seventh and D streets northwest and threatened to shoot her. First Precinct Policeman L. Hale, called to the scene, testified that he found an automatic pistol in McGrath's clothes.

Fall Injuries Fatal to Woman.

Mrs. Mary Watts, 70 years old, of 2120 G street northwest, died last night in Emergency Hospital from injuries received February 21, when she fell on the sidewalk near her home.

WELFARE AGENCIES WILL ADJUST HOURS

Half-Holiday Law Causes Need of More Workers, Director Claims.

Heads of the District welfare institutions will confer today with George S. Wilson, public welfare director, in an effort to adjust schedules of working time to the Saturday half-holiday.

Additional employes will be required in some of the institutions, Mr. Wilson said, as it would be impossible to give all of the employes the equivalent of four hours under the present personnel total.

Every effort will be made, however, to give all workers in the welfare department compensation for the loss of the Saturday half-holiday, he explained, just as now is done when employes have to work on Sundays.

Mr. Wilson said he has received no complaints from any of the institutions, but it is understood labor organizations are insisting on shorter hours for the employes.

2 Men, Car and Liquor Seized by Officer Here

Two men were arrested, a large quantity of liquor was seized and a new automobile was confiscated by Sergt. George Little last night in a raid on Thirty-seventh street, near Tunlaw street northwest.

The men gave their names as Samuel J. Bond, 22, of Fourteenth street northwest, near V street northwest, and Donato Gautiere, 30, of F street, near Twenty-second street northwest. Both were charged with illegal possession. Police estimated the seizure at 150 gallons of alcohol, and 468 half gallons of white liquor.

Movies Are Broadcast In Television Program

The first radiovision broadcast of a Department of Agriculture educational film was made last night, when Station W3XK, the Jenkins television transmitter, put on the air "The Cougar Hunt," a Biological Survey picture recently released by the department's office of motion pictures.

The picture was broadcast in halftone, direct from the film, on a wavelength of 145 meters.

Drug Store Thief Gets $205, Overlooks Rum

A thief broke into a pharmacy early yesterday and stole $205 in cash and checks, but left 50 quarts of choice liquors.

Dr. Charles H. Phillips, of the Alban Towers Pharmacy, 3700 Massachusetts avenue northwest, reported to police that a cellar window was jimmied and a locker broken open, in which the cash and whisky were hidden.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

COMPETITION FOR THE DIVORCE BUSINESS.

THE States of Idaho and Arkansas are making a bid for the Nevada divorce business. Both are considering bills making divorces possible within six weeks, and after one week's residence. Senator Duane Bush, of Nevada, has met this with a proposal to permit Reno judges to grant separation by mail!

* * * *

The competition is getting so strenuous that any one of these States may soon offer premiums and cash prizes with every decree. Unhappily married folks may presently submit their domestic problems to the State offering the best terms.

* * * *

"My dear, I'd never think of going to Reno for a divorce," you may hear some dashing brunette exclaim. "In Arkansas the service is much better. They meet you at the station and furnish free transportation to and from the court!"

* * * *

The bill of Senator Bush of Nevada, introduced in the Western war for supremacy in the matter of ready-to-wear divorce suits, permits an applicant to give the evidence by deposition and get a decree by return mail.

* * * *

"ENCLOSED find $50 in 2-cent stamps, for which please separate me from my husband, as advertised," a petition by mail may read, or: "I am sending you $75 in postage for one of your handsomely embossed annulments, No. 6, Series D, and also 20 2-cent stamps for your folder on 'How to Be the Life of Any Party in Ten Lessons.' Please send these special delivery."

* * * *

Under the mail order divorce plan the courts may even issue a catalogue:

No. 3768. Separation on ample and authentic evidence. $67.98. With full guarantee.

No. 3690. Separation on flimsy evidence. Special offer: $133.65. This includes fake detectives and expert perjurers. Money back if not satisfied.

Conflicting Details Delay Rum Case

Probe Ordered in Liquor Charge Filed Against Man and Wife.

Complicating circumstances surrounding the charge of liquor possession against a married couple led to continuation of the case yesterday in Police Court by Assistant United States Attorney David A. Hart, who said he would order further investigation.

The charges were placed against Paul M. Ward and his wife, Margaret Ada Ward, of Delafield place, near Fifth street northwest, following their arrest Saturday by Fifth Precinct Policeman J. F. Bowers on the heels of an accident on Eleventh street, near I street southwest.

The car Mrs. Ward was driving was alleged to have struck James B. Carroll, of Eleventh street, near I street northwest. She was fined $10 on a charge of operating with bad brakes.

Conflicting testimony was offered by two policemen pertaining to the ability of the machine to stop. Information papers filed with the liquor charge said that two pints of liquor were consifcated. The papers said that immediately after the accident Ward passed the alleged liquor to a pedestrian, who in turn, gave it to a clerk in a nearby grocery store, who in turn was said to have returned it to the pedestrian.

The free-trade issue last night was debated by teams representing Catholic University and the University of Florida in a no-decision contest at the Martin Maloney Chemical Laboratory at Catholic University.

William Ferguson and Vincent Zahner, of the Shahan Debating Society, of Catholic University, upheld the affirmative of the question. They stressed universal economic advantages that might accrue from the free-trade principle, while the Florida team emphasized the protective feature.

The Florida duo is on a tour of the East, in the course of which it will meet Temple, Bucknell, Penn State, Lehigh, Boston, Holy Cross, New York and Vermont Universities.

Using Dead Man's Check Is Charged

Probate Sought on Will of Veteran by Soldier's Home Official.

Asserting that a check for $5,202.68 had been cashed by Alvin S. Callahan, of Taylor street, near Sixth street northwest, after the death of the maker, Philip Ryan, a Soldiers' Home inmate, W. C. Babcock, secretary-treasurer of the United States Soldiers' Home, yesterday petitioned the Probate Court to grant him letters of collection on the estate left by Ryan.

The petition, filed through District Attorney Leo S. Rover, says that Mr. Ryan made a will making Mr. Callahan his sole heir four days before his death. It was further asserted that the check covered all but 5 cents of the money kept by Mr. Ryan in the bank, and that it was cashed after the death of the man.

The will made by Mr. Ryan was filed, but no petition has been made to have it probated. Mr. Ryan, according to the records, lived with Mr. Callahan while on a furlough from the home.

AUTO BRAKE CHART GIVEN POLICE COURT

Speeds of Automobies Are Analyzed in Terms of Feet and Seconds.

Motorists arraigned hereafter in Police Court on motor vehicle operation charges must hurdle a new barrier if they would escape an adverse decision.

The judges yesterday were presented with a chart, to be applied in all necessary cases, showing the number of feet traveled by a machine at various speeds, the ability of both two-wheel brakes and four-wheel brakes to bring a car to a stop at different speeds.

Compiled at the instance of Assistant Director of Traffic M. O. Eldridge, the table shows, for example, that a car travels 29.3 feet per second at a 20-mile-an-hour speed. A car with two-wheel brakes can stop in 37 feet, and a machine with four-wheel brakes can stop in 22.2 feet. The time consumed in going one mile obviously is three minutes.

Figuring the speed at 25 miles an hour, the car goes 36.6 feet per second. The added speed, however, increases the risk in stopping by lengthening the distance for two-wheel brake cars to 58 feet, and that for cars of four-wheel brakes to 34.7 feet. Exactly 36 seconds are saved in a mile by increasing the speed from 20 to 25 miles an hour.

"This possible saving of about one-half a minute greatly increases the likelihood of an accident," declared Mr. Eldridge. "Time is valuable, but are these few paltry seconds which are saved by increased speed worth while by taking chances with life and limb?"

Four Are Charged With Shoplifting

Two Youths Admit Theft of Neckties; Women Plead Guilty.

Shoplifting charges led two North Carolina youths and two colored women yesterday morning before Judge Isaac R. Hitt in United States Police Court.

The youths, John C. Bates, 18 years old, and John A. Brawley, 21 years old, arrested Friday by Detective David G. Fletcher on complaint of a department store, admitted attempting to steal neckties there for a planned sale to obtain money for continuing their motor trip from their home to New York. Six neckties, valued at a total of $9, were reported found in Brawley's possession. Judge MaMahon referred them to Probation Officer Robert Smith, who later recommended probation.

Annie Gilbert and Margaret Jones, both of Second street near B street northeast, pleaded guilty to larceny charges for stealing shirts valued at $11, and were sentenced to 60 days in jail each.

A witness stated Alexander's car and another machine which failed to stop were coming south on Eleventh street.
